BARRERE TO REFUSE LAWYER AT HEARING IN ARLINGTON TODAY

Baker Murder Suspect Puts Fate in Hands of Friends.

IS WILLING TO FACE DEATH GUN'S OWNER

Vigilance Over Campbell Relaxes and Dealer Visits Beach.

THEFT OF CLOTHING PROOF TO BE SOUGHT

Officers Then Will Try to Establish That Captive Stole Fatal Gun.

No lawyer will be retained by Herman H. Barrere to protect his interests at the conference today in Arlington County Courthouse, when he will be confronted by Herbert M. Campbell, owner of the gun which was used in the slaying of MaMry E. Baker.

Instead of a lawyer, Barrere decided yesterday, he will place his reliance for exoneration upon those who say he was with them on the evening of the murder. In addition to Campbell and all the witnesses to his alibi, others will present evidence against him at the conference where authorities hope many mysteries of the strange murder will be unraveled.

Commonwealth's Attorney William C. Gloth and Sheriff Howard R. Fields talked with Barrere yesterday in the Arlington County Jail, where he is being held on the murder charge. The suspect expressed his willingness to answer all questions revolving about the circumstantial case that has been built about him.

Mr. Gloth and Mr. Fields announced that the itinerant painter reversed his intention, expressed on Saturday, to employ counsel, and decided to place his dependence on his friends. Furthermore, Barrere said, he is willing to face all witnesses in the case, including Campbell, who Barrere accuses of having a grudge against him. Barrere also said that the goods which Campbell accuses him of having taken from his house were planted in his car.

Hearing to Start Today.

Many of the mysterious parts of the case are expected to be cleared today at the parley. Sheriff Fields has called the inquisition to start at 10 o'clock, and it will probably last all day.

Since the arrest of Barrere in Montreal on Wednesday, Campbell has been under constant surveillance. This vigil was relaxed yesterday when the owner of the death gun was given permission to go to a resort on Chesapeake Bay. Deputy Sheriff Harry L. Woodyard is also spending the week-end at the same resort.

Since his incarceration in jail, Barrere has been as jaunty as ever. Jail attendants said that the man is certain that his freedom will come within a few days. He laughs at the idea that he was in any way implicated in the murder of the Navy Department clerk.

Dinner Order Goes Awry.

For dinner yesterday he ordered pork chops, fried potatoes, coffee and cream and pie. When the repast was spread before him it consisted of a plate of beans and bread. Barrere for the first time since the jailing expressed displeasure, and said, "This situation will have to be remedied."

No word has been received from Philadelphia, where detectives of that city and Department of Justice men were requested by Lieut. Edward J. Kelly to confiscate Barrere's personal effects and have them sent to this city.

Since his incarceration, Barrere has been held incommunicado in the jail. Even his wife, Mrs. Ora S. Barrere, and his brother, Leon Barrere, are being denied admission. Only officials directly connected with the murder investigation will be permitted to see him.

Says He Gave Tent Away.

Barrere is more than willing to solve the mystery of the disposition of his tent. The suspect has told Lieut. Kelly that he gave it to a fellow named "Dan," who is connected with the stables at Fort Myer. "I will produce this man to prove my story," he told Lieut. Kelly. Authorities had searched for the tent for weeks.

C. L. Johnstone, one of the men who was with George A. Kelly when he located the girl's apparel in a trap sewer near the culvert, appeared at the courthouse yesterday. Johnstone offered his services to Mr. Gloth, who is seeking to locate Kelly to discover if he is the same Kelly who Barrere says accompanied him on a trip to Alexandria from Washington.

Authorities will begin their investigation today, said Lieut. Kelly and Mr. Fields, by trying to prove that

Calvin Coolidge

Says: The rapidity with which the old South is emerging is not generally appreciated. It has attracted new blood and new capital. From a region of plantations it is becoming also a region of industry and commerce. But its economic development is not so great as its change in thought. It is less local and more national.

There are three important influences that are removing its inertia of mind and body. The public schools have been much improved both in housing and courses of instruction. Their power has become very great. The radio has done for people of mature years what the schoolhouse has done for the youth in the way of lifting them out of themselves and giving them new ideas. This is changing the tone and the influence of the local press. And the system of good roads which is already extensive and rapidly increasing whereby the automobile has enlarged the circumstance of mental vision ranks very high in the progress of the new South. It has made the country accessible not only to itself but to the outside world. We behold a people of high spirit and great natural endowments under the inspiration of a new hope coming into their own.

CARETAKER, CRAZED, KILLS TWO AND SELF

Another Pair Wounded in Shooting on Estate at Wilkes-Barre.

POSSE HEMS IN SLAYER

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., July 20 (A.P.).—Three persons were shot dead and two others badly wounded in a shooting orgy last night and today, started by a suddenly crazed caretaker of a Lehman Heights estate here. The caretaker, Paul Skopka, after holding at bay a posse organized to hunt him down, reserved his last shotgun shell to kill himself.

The dead other than Skopka are:

Harry D. Sordoni, 52, of Kingston, owner of the estate on which the shooting occurred and a brother of State Senator A. J. Sordoni.

Capt. John T. Ruth, 50, police chief and deputy sheriff, who was killed from ambush.

The wounded are:

Frieda Sordoni, 17, daughter of Sordoni, shot in one arm as she fled in her automobile for assistance.

Francis Sordoni, 31, son of the slain estate owner, shot in the leg as he went to his father's aid.

According to information supplied by Frieda and Francis Sordoni, members of the family were unpacking articles from their car at the Lehman Heights estate when Skopka suddenly appeared carrying a double-barried shotgun. Without warning he opened fire, felling the elder Sordoni.

Mrs. Sordoni fainted. Frieda, leaping into the driving seat of the Sordoni automobile, started for aid. Again Skopka blazed away, striking the girl in the right arm. A second shot shattered the windshield, fragments of the glass piercing her left wrist.

Despite these injuries she succeeded in driving away for aid. Francis made for Skopka, but a quickly fired shell felled him.

The elder Sordoni died early today in a hospital.

Frieda said five shots were fired, four containing ballshot, the fifth scattershot.

TREATY ADVOCATES TO PUSH FOR VOTE

Ratification Will Be Sought in Senate Session Today or Tomorrow.

ONE CHANGE IS FAVORED

(Associated Press.)

Sweltering in the hottest weather of years here, Senate leaders yesterday determined to seek ratification of the London Naval Treaty by tonight or tomorrow.

The spirited band of opponents gained a day of rest, placing them in a position to resume the attack today, but they see the futility of a losing fight and apparently are ready to let the treaty go through.

The dozen or more reservations directed at the pact by the foes must be disposed of before a vote on ratification is in order, but treaty advocates assert these would be voted down almost without exception.

Only one reservation, that by Senator Norris (Republican), Nebraska, is due for acceptance. This reservation provides that in ratifying the treaty the Senate gives no approval whatever to any secret agreements or understandings which may exist.

President Hoover and the senatorial delegates to London, Robinson (Democart), Arkansas and Reed (Republican), Pennsylvania, have assured the Senate there are no secret agreements or understandings, but they have agreed to accept the Norris reservation in the interests of speeding up action.

With the treaty out of the way, the Senate will quit almost immediately. Mr. Hoover sent up some nominations Saturday. These will be confirmed if there is no opposition, but if trouble develops, no attempt will be made to keep the weary senators here any longer.

The treaty places a limitation upon the construction of auxiliary ships in the American, British and Japanese navies, thus completing the program of limitation begun at Washington in 1922, when a limitation was placed upon capital ships—the battleships.

The opposition, led by Senators Johnson (Republican), California, and Hale (Republican), Maine, the Crowder Unable to Protect 3-1 Advantage in Early Frames.

MYER GETS 3 HITS TO LEAD IN ATTACK

Browns Clinch Victory in Fourth Inning Chasing Four Runs Across.

By FRANK H. YOUNG
(Staff Correspondent of The Post).

Sportsmen's Park, St. Louis, Mo., July 20.—Although every other team in the circuit has been trimming the Browns lately, they still seem to hold their "jinx" over the Nationals, taking the opening game of the second invasion here this afternoon by an 8-to-6 count. As the Mackmen won in Detroit, this defeat widened the gap between the Athletics and Nationals to four full games.

George Blaeholder and Alvin Crowder were the respective pitchers and both went the route, although hit fairly hard. Blaeholder granted eight hits in the first four frames, but was given a lease on life because Crowder could not hold two small leads given him, with the Browns stepping out in the fourth.

In the seventh, three more St. Louis runs were scored and these were more than enough to give Blaeholder the edge, despite a last-inning splurge by the Nats in which Joe Judge, pinch-hitting for Crowder, with one on, cracked out a homer over the stands in right, with Art Shires giving an encore later in the frame. This was Judge's second four-bagger in as many days.

Nats in Strong Start.

The Nats started as though they would turn in an easy victory for, after the Browns had equaled a run they molded in the first, they became 2 up in the third. Blaeholder managed to stop them cold at this point, however, and with Crowder having two bad frames, the result was never in doubt, although the Nats threw a mild scare into the Brownie camp in their final turn at the tee. Goose Goslin went back to the stands in left to rob Cronin of at least a double with a one-hand stab which ended the game.

Each team was credited with thirteen hits, with Myer getting three for the Nats and McNeely, Melillo and Badgro showing the way to the natives with two each. Every Brownie, by the way, hit safely at least once.

The Nats kept pecking away at Blaeholder's slants and appeared to

EXPERTS' TASK ON MAKE-UP OF HOUSE STARTS

Queer Tricks Played by Census Which Is Basis of Reapportionment.

CONGRESS RECASTING IS FIRST IN 20 YEARS

Actual Changes Await Reports From Eleven States Still Out.

MAJOR FRACTIONS IS KEY TO ODD SEATING

Pennsylvania Grows Faster Than Michigan, but Will Lose One Member.

(Associated Press.)

The queer quirks performed by "the method of major fractions" as it operates on State populations in the reapportionment of members of the House of Representatives are going to bring about many seeming inconsistencies.

California, with an increase of 3,264,733 in population since the last reapportionment of the House was made, likely will receive an addition of nine members to her delegation, while Illinois, with a gain of 1,991,892 people in the same time, will receive no additional members.

Likewise, Michigan with an increase of 2,008,198, may gain four additional members, while Pennsylvania with an increase of 2,387,899 is down to lose one member.

Calculations Tossed Aside.

New York on an increase of 3,495,941 people will probably be given two additional members, and New Jersey, with a probable gain of 1,401,833, is slated to gain two new members also, while Texas with an increase of 1,014,141 probably will be given three additional representatives.

With the populations of 37 States already announced, experts have begun figuring on the makeup of the House under the new apportionment law. Some of their calculations made a year ago already have been overturned, the latest developments being an indication Georgia will lose two representatives instead of none as had previously been figured. New York likely will gain two instead of losing one. Texas might gain three instead of two, and California nine instead of six. Minnesota probably will lose one instead of maintaining her delegation of ten as at present, and Ohio may gain only one instead of three as had been forecast.

Census Bureau May Act.

The actual changes in a number of instances can not be determined until the remaining eleven States have reported their population and the method of major fractions put to work.

A tabulation of the actual and estimated increases indicated that in

Tilden to Be Member Of Davis Cup Team

Veteran Court Star Yields To Entreaties; Other Players Named.

Philadelphia, July 20 (A.P.).—William T. Tilden, hero of many Davis Cup matches, will again be a member of the United States team in the challenge round against France. This was announced tonight by Joseph W. Wear, chairman of the United States Davis Cup committee.

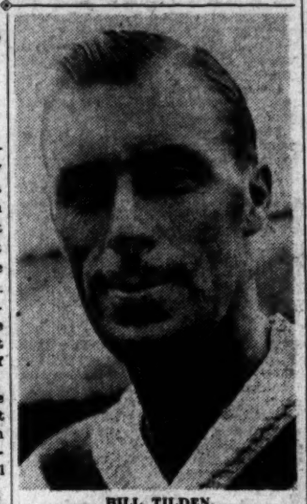

Others selected to represent America in the challenge round are George Lott, Chicago Willmer Allison, Fort Worth, Tex., and John Van Ryn, of Princeton.

No announcement of the probable line-up of the team was made, but it appears almost certain that Tilden and Lott will carry the singles burden, while Van Ryn and Allison will be paired in the doubles.

Mr. Wear said the definite selection would be left to FitzEugene Dixon, nonplying captain of the team, and that it probably would not be announced until 24 hours before the start of the matches.

Despite the Philadelphia veteran's announcement that he would not become a member of the American team because of his contract with a news syndicate to "cover" the matches, Mr. Wear had stated many times that he felt certain Tilden Temperature on Street Recorded at Kiosk as 110 Degrees.

HUMIDITY REMAINS LOW THROUGH DAY

Thousands Seek Relief at Beaches, Parks and in Pools.

COUNTRY REPORTS 14 MORE DEATHS

Entire Midwest and East Are Baked by Blazing Sun; Drought Tightens.

Driven by a merciless sun, blazing in a nearly cloudless sky and by a hot wind, which eddied up from the burning pavements, the official thermometer in Washington rampaged upward yesterday to a new all-time heat record.

Weather Bureau officials reported a temperature of 105.8 degrees, as compared to 105.5, the previous record set in 1918. Both temperatures go into the books as 1066 degrees, it being customary to count a full degree for half degrees or more. At the kiosk on Pennsylvania avenue the high figure was 110 degrees.

The official high at the Weather Bureau was reached at 4 o'clock in the afternoon, but early last evening the temperature had dropped to 94 degrees and a further drop was anticipated. Humidity remained at about 30 throughout the day.

Few More Deaths Reported.

While Washingtonians searched vainly for means of relieving the heat, reports from all over the country indicated that the Capital was not alone in its suffering. To the 30 deaths reported Saturday in various sections, 14 more were added yesterday, according to an Associated Press compilation. New York State had nine of these deaths, Milwaukee and Philadelphia two each and Chicago one.

There is little possibility that this heat wave will break today. Weather Bureau officials said there is no likelihood of cooling showers, but predicted a possible slight drop in temperature.

Despite the severe heat wave of the last few days, there have been few heat prostrations. The Weather Bureau said low humidity has offset the high temperatures. The lower the humidity, the faster perspiration evaporates from the body. Fast evaporation has a cooling effect.

Parks Are Crowded.

Washingtonians who fled to parks, pools and beaches did not need to consult thermometers, for the blazing sun gave ample warning.

Parks were crowded with people taking advantage of shade trees and the slight effect of a breeze, which seemed like a furnace blast, but had some cooling virtues. Hundreds found the marble depths of the Congressional Library the coolest spot in the city.

The Chevy Chase Lake and McKinley High School swimming pools were crowded to capacity. At Chevy Chase over 5,000 bathers sought the cooling waters. Operators of the pool say a record attendance was established. The average Sunday attendance is 1,000.

Park fountains and bird baths were constantly filled by numerous birds, seeking relief from the heated air in the comparatively cooler water.

Heat Goes to 116 Degrees.

Temperatures in the direct rays of the sun rivaled records from Death Valley and the Sahara. Thermometers placed in trees in the residential districts of the city registered up to 116 degrees.

At the Washington Cathedral a temperature of 106 at the Peace Cross caused the 4 o'clock vespers to be held in the Bethlehem Chapel, where

10-CENT FARE ORDER TO BE READY TODAY

Counsel for Traction Lines Will Present Draft to Commission.

TOKEN SALE RESTRICTED

Counsel for the street car companies today will present the Utilities Commission and Vernon E. West, acting corporation counsel, and Richmond B. Keech, people's counsel, the draft of the formal decree which they will present to Justice Jennings Bailey, of the District Supreme Court, for signature.

Signing of the formal decree will officially put the 10-cent cash fare, with four tokens for 30 cents, in effect, and beginning Wednesday morning Washington car riders will have to pay the higher rate unless the completely unexpected happens, and something occurs to delay briefly the enforcement of the court order.

The opinion handed down by Justice Bailey is deemed so clear by attorneys for both the commission and the car companies that there is not much room for disagreement as to the proper wording of the decree which he is to sign.

Conductors of both the Washington Railway & Electric Co. and the Capital Traction Co. were operating yesterday under orders not to sell more than six tokens to any one customer until the higher fares become effective.

Street cars carried signs giving notice to the public that "effective immediately and until further notice the sale of car tokens will be limited to six to each purchaser. Notice to this effect has been duly filed with the Public Utilities Commission."

The action was taken by the companies in order to forestall purchase of large quantities of tokens at the present price of 6 for 40 cents.

The same tokens will be continued in use by the companies when the new rate of four for 30 cents becomes effective, and tokens sold at the present rate, but not used before the new

VIRGINIA HEAT WAVE BREAKS JULY MARKS

107 Degrees at Observatory of University Is Declared All-Time Record.

DROUGHT PERILS CROPS

Richmond, July 20 (A.P.).—Heat records fell throughout Virginia today, under rays of a July sun unsurpassed in years.

Dr. S. A. Mitchell, of the University of Virginia observatory, said the temperature of 107 degrees there early this afternoon was an all-time record. At the same time United States Weather Bureau officials here said the Richmond temperature of 102.2, at 2:45 p. m., was the hottest July temperature on record, and with one exception was the highest ever recorded here. It was exceeded by 4.8 degrees August 6, 1918.

Shenandoah valley towns, where farmers have sold stock to save it from stifling heat, reported an average temperature of 102 degrees.

The population of Harrisonburg is on water rations, a city ordinance prohibiting citizens from using the water supply for any except strictly domestic purposes.

Farmers there said more than a month of drought had parched crops, and unless general rains immediately set in virtually the entire produce crop will be lost.

One heat prostration was reported by a Richmond hospital.

Special to The Washington Post.

Harrisonburg, Va., July 20.—The Shenandoah Valley today suffered the hottest day since 1926, the official thermometer at Dale Enterprise registering 103 degrees in the shade, or within two degrees of the 60-year record of L. J. Heatwole, the veteran weather observer here.

On July 19 to 22 in 1926, the record reading of 105 degrees was registered four days in a row. Aside from this torrid stretch, there has been only one reading higher than today since 1870, that on July 14, 1887, when the thermometer register-

Hoover Plans Start For West in August

Chief Executive to Visit National Playgrounds With Main Stop at Glacier Lake; Return Set for September 10.

(Associated Press.)

President Hoover expects to make public this week or early next week the itinerary and date for starting upon his Western vacation tr.pi

With the Senate nearing the end of its session, White House aids are busy laying definite plans for the journey and it is believed the Chief Executive will be able to leave by August 10 to be gone probably until the first week in September.

In the meantime, the National Parks Service and its director, Horace M. Albright, are going forward with tentative plans for receiving the Chief Executive and the large party which will accompany him. While the extent of the trip is not certain, Mr. Hoover has definitely decided to carry through his original desire to make the most extensive stop at Glacier Park in Montana near the international line, and it is there that efforts of the Parks Service are being concentrated.

Mr. Hoover expects to spend about a week in Glacier Park, stopping at Two Medicine Chalets on Two Medicine Lake. Fighting trout of the cutthroat and rainbow species weighing up to 2½ pounds abound in the lake, while around the President will be some of the most beautiful scenery in the West.

Glacier Park is split by the Continental Divide. The lodge where the Chief Executive will stop is close under the east side of the range, looking up 4,000 or 5,000 feet to snow-covered peaks. From the park entrance to the lodge he will travel by motor over the Blackfeet Hihway, traversing the Blackfeet Indian Reservation.

While Mr. Hoover expects to spend most of his time resting at the lake base, plans also call for side trips to Many-Glacier Lake and to Sun Chalet, in the center of the park. He does not intend to cross the international line.

Leaving Glacier, the party will move southward to Yellowstone Park, probably by motor. While Mr. Hoover hopes to spend almost as much time in Yellowstone, he does not expect to settle down in one spot. Five days aer required to tour the park, so the President will have little time for fishing.

From that point on plans are indefinite, depending upon the length of time the president can absent himself from the capital.

On the trip west, the tentative itinerary calls for a direct route, with brief stops arranged at Chicago and Minneapolis. Suggestions that he go to Detroit and take a boat up Lake Huron and across Lake Superior to Duluth virtually have been eliminated by curtailing the time of trip.

The chief executive has announced the trip will be made solely for a holiday and rest and that none of the many invitations tendered him to speak and make public appearances will be accepted.

Representative Esterly And Party Hurt in Crash

Pennsylvania House Member and Friends From Capital Narrowly Escape Death When Auto Overturns After Striking Road Machine.

Special to The Washington Post.

Culpeper, Va., July 20.—Representative Charles J. Esterly, of Pennsylvania, and a party of friends from Washington narrowly escaped death when their car, a heavy sedan, crashed into a piece of road building machinery on Route 15, 10 miles south of here, this afternoon. Representative Esterly had left Washington for Monticello, the home of Jefferson, but missed a turn in the town of Orange and had turned back toward Washington.

Coming over the brow of a hill his car was enveloped in a cloud of dust stirred up by another car and he struck the wheel of a heavy road planer, which caused his car to overturn.

The entire top of the car was crushed down about the seats and those who examined the car after the wreck said that the party's escape was miraculous.

Mr. Esterly received bruises and cuts about his feet and legs. Mrs. Ruth Barksdale and Mrs. Pearl Denmark both received cuts and bruises around their heads and upper part of their bodies. Mrs. Barksdale's son, Frank, and Mrs. Denmark's little girl were barely scratched. All the occupants of the car except Mr. Esterly were from Washington.

Medical Corps Forbidden To Give Civilians Rum Dose

Order Not Only Prevents Army Physicians From Prescribing Liquor for Citizens, But Restricts Practice Outside Service Circles.

Officers of the Army Medical Corps may no longer prescribe alcohol or alcoholic liquors for civilian patients. Prescriptions given military personnel are limited to cases of actual illness and may be filled only at military pharmacies.

Under former regulations Army medical officers who found opportunity to administer to the needs of private patients from time to time were required to obtain from the national prohibition commissioner permits to prescribe liquor to such patients.

Recently new regulations were issued under which medical officers are forbidden to prescribe liquor to civilian patients. In fact, the new regulations tighten the restrictions under which medical officers may treat other than military personnel.

Where the neds of private patients are being satisfactorily met by civilian practictioners, the civil practice of medical officers will, ordinarily, be confined to consultation "and to emergency medical or surgical work necessary to save life or limb or to prevent great suffering, for which practitioners are not immediately available."

The new restrictions on medical officers recalls the memorandum recently issued by the War Department, calling attention of Army officers to the Volstead act and stating that they must obey the law wherever they may be.

NEWS of SUBURBAN Washington and the Surrounding States

Appears on Pages 3 and 14 Today

3 was 78 degrees. During the services Canon G. Freeland Peter read a prayer for rain from the new Episcopal prayer book. This was the first time this prayer has been invoked.

Firemen at No. 3 Engine Company, New Jersey avenue at E street, turned the hose on the engine house and on the Sixth Precinct Police Station, which adjoins, in an attempt to cool the buildings and the surrounding atmosphere. Police and firemen say a pronounced cooling effect resulted.

Water Shortage in Montgomery.

The long drought in Montgomery County, in addition to ruining practically all crops, has caused a water shortage at the Burnt Mills, Md., reservoir, which supplies thousands in the Maryland suburban districts. Less than eight days' supply remains in the reservoir. A connection will be made with the District water supply at Chevy Chase, which will give 500,000 gallons daily. Already 1,000,000 gallons are being pumped from the Rhode Island avenue connection. These additional amounts will relieve the famine, but unless rain falls in a few days consumers will be forced to curtail their use of water.

The Arlington County water system is still ample to supply residents. Some residents, who have not availed themselves of the system, and have been securing water from wells and springs, face a serious shortage.

Forest lands in Virginia and Maryland are very dry and the fire danger is great. A bad fire on Haystack Mountain, near Cumberland, was reported under control Saturday night.

Prayers for rain are being evoked throughout this section. Unless rain falls in a day or two crops of corn and potatoes will be a total loss.

Columbus Hottest City.

Columbus, Ohio, had the dubious honor of having the highest temperature. The mark there was 112, unofficially. In Lancaster, Ohio, a reading of 106 broke the 37-year record, and the same degree obtained in Wheeling, W. Va., and Martin's Ferry, Ohio.

In Kansas, where the drought is seriously affecting crops, churches prayed for rain while the mercury flirted with 102 degrees. Milwaukee, home of a former great cooling drink, reported that the thermometers said 100, while another city of the same reputation, St. Louis, reported the same.

Throughout Illinois and Indiana, the temperature seemed stuck around the 100 mark, though Chicago suburbs reported 104. Detroit was practically an ice box, the heat there only touching 96. Cincinnati, further south, made it 101.04.

Washington's experience was at variance with the most of the East, however, where the temperatures were generally several degrees lower than Saturday's mark. The two great Pennsylvania cities, Pittsburgh and Philadelphia, and all of the State of New Jersey made it with 98, while the New York mark was 92. New England felt with rejoicing the cool breezes which closed hte wave there.

Rain Shortage in Kansas.

C. J. Posey, meterologist for the University of Kansas, produced figures to show that the annual rainfall for that state is only about two-thirds of the average precipitation. Every month but January this year has had less than the usual amount.

Bringing up the welcome question of snowfall, Mr. Posey recalled that there was more than 19 inches during the first three months of the year, instead of the usual 14, but the greater part of this fell during January.

Lawns were being scorched brown in Kansas City, and H. L. Hildwein, county farm agent at Wichita, had grave forbodings as to how the crops would fare.

"Hundreds of acres of corn which at one time gave promise of a bumper crop will be lost entirely unless it rains within the next day or awo," he said. But there is no promise of relief sooner than the latter part of the week, when unsettled wathr may bring showrs.

ed 104 degrees. The 103 mark of today has been reached only twice before, in 1889 and 1911.

Unofficial thermometers on the streets of Harrisonburg today registered temperatures as high as 127 degrees in the sun.

The sweltering populace is made more uncomfortable by the lack of water. The City of Harrisonburg, seeking to avoid a shortage of drinking water, has forbidden all but essential use of water. Farmers who have been forced to haul water for several months, are finding the sources becoming drier and drier.

Many farmers are selling their cattle at a loss because of the absence of pasture and water. All garden and field crops appear virtually ruined by the prolonged drought, the worst ever faced by the Shenandoah Valley.

President Seeks Relief From Heat

He and Mrs. Hoover Stay Under Fan Most of Day, Then Go Riding.

(Associated Press.)

Like most other residents of the Capital, President Hoover spent the Sabbath seeking relief from the intense heat under an electric fan.

The Chief Executive and Mrs. Hoover remained at the White House until late in the day, when they took an hour's automobile ride about the city, mostly in Rock Creek Park.

Their youngest son, Allan, left yesterday to resume work at the New Jersey factory where he is employed during his vacation from Harvard. President Hoover had intended making his usual week-end visit to his mountain camp in Virginia, but decided not to go after the Senate remained in session Saturday.

Two Planes Aloft For Refuel Mark

One Craft, Up Previously, Had Been Forced Down by Mishap in Air.

Roosevelt Field, N. Y., July 20 (A.P.).—Two planes took off from here tonight, both seeking to break the refueling endurance record of almost 554 hours set by the Hunter brothers in Chicago.

The first, containing Louis Reichers and Robert J. Black, Army reserve pilots, ascended at 7:34 p. m. (E. S. T.) and the second, piloted by Tex Andling, of Rosebud, Tex., and Jack Charleson, of Ottawa, hopped off 55 seconds later.

Reichers and Black took off yesterday in an assault on the endurance record, but were forced down this morning after about 13½ hours in the air. The refuel ship, in maneuvering to put gasoline aboard, had damaged the endurance plane's propeller, and a storage battery hod overturned, spilling liquid which ate away some of the fuselage.

ONE KILLED, SIX HURT IN MEXICAN RIOTING

Revolutionaries Clash With Socialists at Elections in Juarez.

23 ARE LODGED IN JAIL

El Paso, Tex., July 20 (A.P.).—One man was shot to death, five others were stabbed and a policeman was injured seriously today in rioting between members of the National Revolutionary party at Chihuahua and the Socialist party during a special state election in Juarez, Chihuahua, across the international boundary from El Paso. Martial law was established.

Juan Saldivar, 35, riding on a truck loaded with members of the National Revolutionary party, was shot by a man said to have been a Socialist party member. Saldivar died two hours later.

Charged with demonstrating against the administration, 23 members of the Socialistic League of Resistance were jailed. Hand-to-hand fighting occurred at polls in precinct No. 1, about 700 men being involved. Women were conspicuous in the battling.

Order was not restored until National Revolutionary party officials took charge of the booths.

The Juarez administration is composed entirely of members of the National Revolutionary party of Chihuahua.

Antonio Cerona, Mexican senator, and other leaders of the Socialist party declared the constituents of Manuel M. Prieto, candidate for governor, were not allowed to cast their votes in Juarez precincts. They alleged that the National Revolutionary party of Chihuahua members forcibly took charge of precinct voting booths with the aid of police.

Several hundred members of the Socialist party gathered in the plaza shortly before noon. Speeches were made by Cerona and other leaders, who said members of the Socialist party were being denied their rights as citizens. The meeting followed the rioting and was comparatively quiet. Mounted squads of soldiers and police patrolled the streets during the gathering.

Portugal Deports 27 in Conspiracy

Situation Reported Quiet in Country; 300 Are Arrested in Week.

Lisbon, July 2 (A.P.).—The Portuguese government today deported to the Azores 27 soldiers and civilians accused of participation in two conspiracies against the dictatorship within the past fortnight. The situation was reported quiet all over Portugal, though a slight public unrest was apparent in the capital.

The two successive plots against President Oscar Carmona are declared to have been frustrated. During the week about 300 persons have been arrested, and the police spent a busy Sunday searching suspected houses in Lisbon for arms and ammunition.

Three army officers among the arrested are accused by the government of having conceived the last plot.

Arabs Plan Mourning For Rioters' Execution

Jerusalem, July 20 (A.P.).—The Arab executive committee here today proclaimed July 27 a day of mourning, it being the fortieth day after the execution of the 1929 riot murderers.

The proclamation urged Arab villagers to visit the Tombs, according to the Moslem custom, on the fortieth day after death. The government restricted the mourners to the pious acts usual on such occasions, prohibiting processions, public assemblies and political speeches. Meanwhile, 2,000 native Christians gathered on Mount Carmel to celebrate the festival of the Prophet Elias.

Turkey Wonders If Kemal Will Wed Prize Beauty, 16

Dictator May Forget Vow Never to Take Another Marriage Fling.

MUSTAPHA KEMAL.

Constantinople, July 20 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Mustapha Kemal, president of the Turkish Republic, has fallen in love again, and all of Turkey, that is, those who know about it, are waiting curiously to see if the pretty Mlle. Mubedjel Hamen, 16-year-old winner of the beauty contest, will become the first lady of the land. The Turkish press, well disciplined and censored, naturally has made no comment on the Ghazi's infatuation with the maid who has just dethroned Mlle. Feriha Tewfik, Turkey's representative in the international beauty contest in the United States last year.

Ever since he divorced Latife Hanoum, dashing and wealthy Smyrnese debutante who shared honors with him in the days of his first political successes, Mustpha Kemal has sworn that he would never take another wife. He has been fascinated many times and his interest in Mlle. Mubedjel has extended to "inviting" her to be his guest at Yalova, a watering place near Constantinople, where he is taking the cure. Although Mustapha Kemal is not a king, his invitations are considered as commands and none in Turkey would dare refuse to obey his command.

For three days Mlle. Mubedjel is reported to have remained at Yalova as Kemal's guest. If she returns the odds will be even that the Ghazi's infatuation is more than passing.

The Turkish president's interest in the 16-year-old maiden began when, taking part in the gigantic demonstration at Constantinople in honor of her selection as Turkey's beauty queen, he personally congratulated her. Some months later when all thought the Ghazi had forgotten her she received the order to join him at Yalova.

Kemal's affairs of the heart are known to be legion. Everyone in Turkey takes them for granted. As the man who drove the invaders from Anatolia, his subjects will forgive him anything. His affairs, which led to rupture with Latife Hanoum, are scarcely mentioned except in the diplomatic colony where they have a "story a day" to recount about Kemal and his doings.

Although "beauty contests" are popular with Mustapha Kemal, who banished the veil that all men might gaze upon the faces of Turkey's beautiful women outside the harems, the general public is not enthusiastic about them. True, some 20,000 people gathered to witness the crowning of Mlle. Mubedjel, but the prettiest of Turkey's womanhood, the newspapers say, are still secluded in their homes. Mlle. Mubedjel, it is claimed, won only in competition with a small minority of Turkey's feminine population.

A raid by United States marshals on the offices of the Perry & Co., brokerage establishment and the arrest of Fred Langhorst and Norman Generc on charges of violating the District bucketships laws followed Consul Abreu's complaint. Officers were confident the other three alleged conspirators would be apprehended early in the week.

SHOWDOWN IS DUE IN FARM BOARD ROW

Chairman Legge to Report on Wheat Situation to Hoover.

CAPPER URGES BUYING

A showdown in the controversy over the wheat situation, resulting from the drop in price to a level not seen before in nearly 20 years, is expected today or tomorrow when Chairman Legge, of the Federal Farm Board, returns with a report to President Hoover.

Senator Capper, of Kansas, will urge Mr. Legge to purchase 100,000,000 bushels of wheat to boost the price, but the President and members of the Farm Board have thrown cold water on that plan. Senator George, of Georgia, yesterday said the farm relief legislation has failed of its purpose, and the attempt of Mr. Legge to peg prices had proved a farce.

"Through the Grain Corporation," said Mr. George, "the Farm Board, with public money, purchased approximately 60,000,000 bushels of wheat. It thus proposed to 'peg' the price.

"The farm act has not benefited the general farmers. On the contrary, the price of all staple crops, such as cotton and wheat, has gone steadily downward since the organization of the board. And now the board is out of the market. Obviously, it will work only when its services are not needed."

President Hoover is supporting Mr. Legge in his contention, which he is trying to sell to grain farmers. That "collective action by the growers, not alone in marketing, but equally important in production, offers the only hope for the future prosperity of American agriculture."

Mr. Legge will tell the President that "there is some opposition to the curtailment program in the Southwestern wheat area," but he "is hopeful that the campaign just made will bring results when farmers have had time to think over the facts."

The Legge plan for helping the wheat farmer by reducing the output so the price to the consumer will increase is not popular in Kansas, the greatest of the wheat-growing States.

Mr. Legge says there is nothing of "Government in business or price fixing" in his program.

New York, July 20 (A.P.).—Mrs. Arinie M. Spooner, widow of United States Senator John C. Spooner, of Wisconsin, died today at her home on Park avenue. She was 83.

Mrs. Spooner's parents were early settlers in Madison Wis., going there in 1854. The late Mr. Spooner entered Congress with the first Cleveland administration in 1885. Surviving are two sons, Charles P. and Philip Loring Spooner, both of New York. Burial will be in the family plot in Madison, Wis.

Mrs. Hoover Patronizes Mountain Chair Factory

Establishment in Virginia Hills, More Than 100 Years Old, Will Furnish Chairs and Tables for Grandchildren of President.

Culpeper, Va., July 20 (A.P.).—The grandchildren of President and Mrs. Hoover are to have tiny chairs of their own selected by their grandmother from a mountain chair factory in existence for 100 years.

James Osborne Clore could not have known when he started making hand-made furniture in a mountain hollow near Madison, Va., in 1830, that a century later the wife of the President of the United States would come to his descendants for gifts.

But two of the little walnut tables made by the founder's great-grandson, E. B. Clore, soon are to be the playthings of Peggy Hoover and Herbert Hoover 3d, called Peter, and footstools from the same factory are now part of the furnishings of President and Mrs. Hoover's mountain lodge on the headwaters of the Rapidan River.

The present owner of the little chair factory was working busily recently turning out furniture for surrounding mountaineer homes when two large cars came slowly down the rough, winding road which leads from the State highway a mile away from his factory. In one of the cars rode two Secret Service men; in the other, Mrs. Hoover and her niece, Janet Large.

The Clores do not make a wide range of furniture, so it did not take Mrs. Hoover long to choose two sturdy children's chairs for the oldest children of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Hoover, jr., aged 4 and 2.

Then, curious at the work of the mountain craftsmen, she wandered about asking questions about the work and the history of the ancient factory. Before she left she also purchased two unfinished footstools and a supply of white oak split for seats, telling Clore that she and her niece would attempt to put the tops on the stools themselves.

BARRERE DECLINES TO ENGAGE LAWYER

Baker Murder Suspect to Depend on Friends at Hearing Today.

ALIBI WILL BE CHECKED

Barrere stole the articles of clothing from Campbell's house. The suspect claims he is innocent of this and accuses Campbell of "planting" them in his car.

Hope to Prove Gun Theft.

If this theft can be proved authorities hope to prove that Barrere took the murder gun from Campbell's home. In addition to this they will summon a witness who says that Barrere once told him that he had a skeleton key to Campbell's home. Campbell says Barrere was at his home on April 10, the day before the murder. Barrere asserts he did not enter the house and while he was near the place Campbell was in his company. Authorities hope to disprove this statement. On other occasions Barrere had been in Campbell's house, he admits.

Once, he says, he obtained a gallon of wine from Campbell to give to Miss Edith W. Heiner, one of Barrere's alibi witnesses. Workmen who were at the house on April 14, the day of the theft, will be summoned.

Then the authorities will begin a chronological examination of activities on the day of the murder. While this part of the investigation may not be completed today, it is part of the scheduled activities of the police, now that the itinerant painter has offered his alibi.

To Check Movements.

From the time that Barrere left the courthouse at noon, April 11, Mrs. Harrison W. Smith, of 210 East Capitol street, will be called to account for his movements. Barrere declared he took Mrs. Smith to an antique shop. From theer he went to the home of Miss Heiner, 2119 O street northwest, he said, and stayed until 5 o'clock. At this place, he said, he had two highballs, which he poured from a flask he carried.

Miss Heiner has said that Barrere, Mrs. Smith and she left her home at 3 o'clock for Mrs. Smith's house, where they remained until after 5 o'clock. While there, she said Mr. Smith came in. Barrere declared that Mr. Smith was at home when they arrived. Mrs. Smith and Mr. Smith both asserted Mis Heiner and Barrere left after 6 o'clock.

As prof of this, Miss Heiner said they stopped at Kahn's store, but it was closed. Then, acording to Miss Heiner's statement, she and Barrere went to her home, where they remained for half an hour, when he left.

Barrere Does Not Recall Halt.

Barrere during his examination by Lieut. Kelly did not recall stopping at Kann's store. To his recollection, he took Miss Heiner to a restaurant, near Fifteenth and F streets. Miss Heiner left him there. Barrere said it was about 5:30 o'clock when he left the Smith home.

Miss Baker left the Church of the Epiphany, on G street between Thirteenth and Fourteenth streets, at 5:40 o'clock. She was last seen by her friends, Miss Ora Smith and Miss Inez Eyre, turning down Fifteenth street. Barrere is uncertain whether he turned left on Fifteenth street or whether he turned north on Fir around the White House, and to his home at the Flagler Apartments.

The girl was last seen alive in her automobile on the Ellipse a few minutes after 6. Barrere, according to his statement to Liet. Kelly, was in the same vicinity at approximately the same time. At this point Mr and Mrs. Hugh R. Wood and Francis Rice, who witnessed the attack on Miss Baker in the Ellipse, will be brought in to see if they can identify Barrere as the assailant.

Clarendon Witnesses Called.

Barrere said that after leaving Miss Heiner he went to his home and bathed. This was about 6:10, he said. Next the authorities will show Barrere to Mr. and Mrs. Lee Masters, of Clarendon, Va., who at 7 o'clock on the night of the murder saw a man running through Arlington Cemetery on the night of the murder.

The man was running in the direction of the Fort Myer gte, from the point where Miss Baker's car was abandoned.

Employes of a lunch room near the Flagler Apartments will be questioned to check Barrere's statement that he was there at 7:30 o'clock on the night of the murder. Here, he said, he met a man named Kelly, who went with him to Arlington County for beer. Authorities are trying to find this man. Barrere's description does not tally with that of the man who found the girl's clothes and who has disappeared from his Yonkers, N. Y., home.

Speakeasy Owner Summoned.

The owner of a speakeasy in Arlington County will be then brought to check Barrere's story of the drinking party. Employes of a restaurant in King street, Alexandria, where Barrere says he was on the night of the murder t 11:30 o'clock, will also be checked.

Miss Heiner says she called Barrere late that night at his home in the Flagler Apartments to tell him she was not go ing on a picnic the following Sunday to Fredericksburg.

Detectives will be sent out today to examine friends of the suspect to see whether he is familiar with the operation of modal A Ford cars. Barrere said he has never driven one.

48 in Elizabeth Hospitals After Crash Between Train and Auto.

Elizabeth, N. J., July 20 (A.P.).—Forty-eight persons were in hospitals and one man was dead today, victims of a wreck of a New York-bound Pennsylvania Railroad train near Elizabeth Station last night.

Held as material witnesses were James W. and Arthur Allcroft and William McNair, all of Elizabeth, who were said to have abandoned the automobile when they saw a collision was inevitable.

ROCKEFELLER FUND QUINTUPLES ITSELF

Shares Given to Daughter Rise $15,000,000 in Value Since 1917.

$6,693,320 IN INTEREST

New York, July 20 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—A trust fund of 12,000 shares of the Standard Oil Co. of Indiana set aside in 1917 by John D. Rockefeller for his daughter, Mrs. Alta Rockefeller Prentice, has since grown from a market value of $3,640,311 to a market value of $18,262,990, it has been disclosed in a report filed in the Supreme Court. In addition to thus quintupling in thirteen years, the principal has also yielded $6,693,320 to Mrs. Prentice as income.

The original 12,000 shares have have been broken up and increased by stock dividends to 336,350. The report filed in court by Sidney C. Crane, as referee, to take accounting of the Equitable Trust Co., as trustees of the fund, does not set forth the present value of the shares, but their new market value is based on the closing price of 51¼ quoted on the curb.

Mrs. Edith Rockefeller McCormick, former wife of Harold F. McCormick, of Chicago, was recipient of a similar nest egg in 1917 and, although the fund created for her does not figure in the present proceeding, it is likely that she has profited similarly from the prodigious growth in the stock value.

This growth, the report shows, was caused by the very large stock dividends paid on the shares, in one instance amounting to 150 per cent, in addition to the regular dividends earned by the shares. Although the original par value was $100 a share, they have been split up several times and par value has been reduced to $25. The number of shares, however, is now 30 times more than originally.

In the interval to 1924 Mrs. Prentice was allocated 36,700 shares as an income and the remainder was retained and added to the principal. But in 1928 the Applegate division ruled that the stock dividends should be considered as part of the principal and not be paid out to Mrs. Prentice as an income.

Both Mrs. McCormick and Mrs. Prentice were given the funds in trust with power to appoint their successors to the fund and leave them to their children, if they wished. He pointed out dangers in giving young children too much money, however, and urged bequeathing the principal to charities like the Rockefeller Foundation in which he is interested.

The husbands of both daughters, as trustees, were allowed an income of $30,000 each a year.

The referee report, which recommended approval of the accounting contained items of $120,591 and $50,842, paid to the law firms of Murray, Aldrich & Roberts, and Barry Wainwright, Thacher & Symers, respectively, for legal services and disbursements.

Rhineland Holds Service of Thanks

President Hindenburg Is Present to Rejoice at Liberation.

Mayence, Germany, July 20 (A.P.). Solemn thanksgiving services for the release of the Rhineland from French control were held today, with President Von Hindenburg participating.

The president attended the services at the principal Protestant church here, and joined heartily in the anthem, "Now Thank We All Our God." Similar services were held at the Catholic Cathedral.

President Hindenburg read a long address afterward at a meeting in the city hall. He extended fraternal greetings to the population of the Saar region, whose steadfastness under the "foreign yoke," he said, deserved the nation's gratitude. The reunion of the districts to the German Fatherland he declared to be the best guarantee of European peace.

At Wiesbaden tonight the president was to attend a musical entertainment. The president so far has been standing the trip well.

charge is effective will be honored by the car companies. Company executives feared that this situation might prompt large numbers of car riders to lay in an extra supply of tokens at the present rate in order to stave off for a few days the effect of the higher fares.

Despite the general disappointment among car riders and their representatives that the fight against higher fares was lost, nothing emerged yesterday which indicated any hope of stalling off the raise or of bringing about a reduction in rates in the near future.

The suggestion that revaluation might be ordered by the Utilities Commission looking toward a reduction in fares was not regarded as affording any real hope of relief. The valuation proceedings would occupy the best part of two years. The new fares would be effective in the meantime.

To Watch Passenger Volume.

Even if revaluation were ordered, it is not certain that valuation could be reduced sufficiently to justify a reduction in rates. While the valuation of both companies are several years old, it is likely that the valuation of the Washington Railway & Electric Co. would be increased somewhat above the figure it now claims as its "minimum" value. The Capital Traction valuation total probably could be reduced from its present figure.

But a reduction in the valuation would have to be sufficient to make their earnings afford them a high rate of return in view of the decisions of the United States Supreme Court that large earnings are justified.

The volume of revenue passenger traffic carried by the car companies will be carefully watched after the new fare is charged. Representatives of car riders have insisted that an increase in fares would mean a consequent decline in the number of car riders and actually do the companies no good. The passenger traffic on both lines has declined sharply this year and shows no signs of having reached the bottom of the drop.

Citizens to Consider Move.

The car fare decision will be subject of consideration at a special meeting of the Federation of Citizens Associations in the District Building at 8 o'clock tonight. William McK. Clayton, chairman of the federation committee on public utilities, plans to call a special meeting of his committee, and Dr. George C. Havenner, president of the federation, said that the matter would be laid before the full meeting.

It was Mr. Clayton, incidentally, who fought for a revaluation of the car companies before the Utilities Commission refused their request for higher fares. Justice Bailey, in his opinion, refused to take responsibility for holding fares down and ordering a new valuation, declaring that the Utilities Commission, seeming to believe a revaluation should be had, had ample authority to order a new valuation, but had failed to do so.

Death Toll in Typhoon Expected to Exceed 100

Tokyo, July 20 (A.P.).—With partial returns today placing the known dead in one district, Kiushiu Island, at 65, death toll of the violent typhoon which swept southern Japan and Korea Friday was expected to exceed the 100 mark. Twenty persons were missing on Kiushiu Island and 254 were seriously injured.

Official estimates of property damage from the same area ran high. Nearly 11,000 houses, including dwellings, shops, schools and public buildings were totally destroyed, while more than 31,000 others were badly damaged. More than 750 vessels, mostly small fishing craft were sunk, many in the sheltered harbor of Nagasaki, and 126 were missing. Estimates of damage throughout the affected areas ran as high as 100,000,000 yen (about $50,000,000).

John Edward Monk, nationally known as a writer on political and economic topics, died yesterday morning at Garfield Hospital. Mr. Monk's death was unexpected. He was recovering, apparently, from an attack of pneumonia and was taken on Saturday to the hospital for an X-ray examination. The immediate cause of his death was a hemorrage resulting from an abcess of the lung.

At the time of his death, Mr. Monk was connected with the Washington Bureau of the New York Times. His illness began with an attack of bronchitis when Mr. Monk was engaged in preparing tables of rates in the new tariff act for publication in the New York Times.

Mr. Monk is survived by his widow, who was Miss Anna E. Tripp, of Washington, and three children, George, Margaret and John F. Monk, jr.; a sister, Miss Ella M. Monk, and a brother, Fred Monk, of Washington. Funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock at the home, 1528 Monroe street northwest.

In 1904 Mr. Monk became associated with the Washington bureau of the old New York Sun and covered many important activities of national developments in the Capital.

During his association with the Sun, Mr. Monk accompanied President Roosevelt on several of his tours, including his picturesque wolf hunting exploit in Colorado.

Member of Gridiron Club.

Through his intimate knowledge of political affairs, Mr. Monk was a valuable man for a newspaper to have at national political party conventions and he attended many of them. At the time his last illness began he was engaged in covering the Senate and the United States Supreme Court for the New York Times. In addition to politics, Mr. Monk specialized in financial news writing and as a close student of transportation problems he had a very thorough knowledge of cases coming before the Interstate Commerce Commission.

His acquaintance with public men was widespread and many of them were his close personal friends.

G.O.P. WOULD DODGE NEW YORK DRY ISSUE

Rumor That Hoover Requested Such Course Is Denied by High Source.

CHAIRMAN PUSHES PLAN

New York, July 20 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Word that President Hoover has requested that the Republican State platform in New York this year contain no reference to prohibition has reached prominent Republicans in the city. Whether or not it is true that the President has made such a request, it was ascertained today that various Republican leaders up-State have been told recently that such is the President's desire, and that every precaution must be taken to be sure that no uncontrollable wets are named as delegates to the State convention.

Whether Republican State Chairman William J. Maier is responsible for spreading such an instruction from the White House could not be determined today, but the reports that the Republican party must declare itself neutral in the prohibition issue have come in the wake of his expeditions up-State to insure the "hand-picking" of convention delegates.

White House Source Denied.

It was denied today by a Republican, who is close to the President, that any such instruction has come from the White House. But another Republican leader, fresh from upstate, affirmed that the word had been circulated in some counties there that the White House wants the campaign waged upon State issues, and that, "since prohibition is not a State issue," the party should make no declaration upon the subject, although individual candidates might, of course, take such positions as they wish.

Silence upon prohibition in the State platform has some precedent in the Republican State platform of 1928, which made no reference to the subject beyond a general indorsement of the national platform, in which was embedded a "law enforcement" plank.

As a result of a series of conferences with upstate leaders, Chairman Maier is said to feel entirely assured that he will be able to prevent the wets of New York and Kings counties from writing a repeal plank into the State platform.

Will Support Nominees.

Mr. Maier already has declared that he will give his full support to all Republican nominees, whether they be wet or dry. His objective is to prevent the party as a whole from being committed to a policy on which it is sharply divided.

If the party as a whole is not committed, he can keep his hands off prohibition in the legislative and congressional contests, supporting the Republican candidate, whether wet or dry.

As if in preparation for the successful execution of this plan, Chairman Maier's aids are spreading among wet New Yorkers the gospel that "it doesn't make any difference what the platform says. Nobody ever reads it. It's what the candidate says that will count." From up-State is filtering down the complementary gospel that "it doesn't make any difference what the candidate says. It's the platform that determines the party's position."

Mrs. M. E. Michael Rites Tomorrow

Brief Illness Is Fatal to Minister's Wife; Burial to Be at Frederick.

Funeral services for Mrs. Mary E. Michael, wife of the Rev. Walter M. Michael, will be held tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock at the Brightwood M. E. Church. Burial will be at Mount Olivet Cemetery, Frederick, Md. Mrs. Michael died at her home, 5315 Eighth street, yesterday, after a brief illness.

Born in Shepherdstown, W. Va., the daughter of the Rev. Paul A. and Ruth M. Edwards, she received her education in the public school of that city, later attending college. Her father was a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church, Baltimore Conference, and was obliged to make frequent trips to that city. It was on one of these trips that she met the Rev. Walter M. Michael, then a young minister, whom she married in 1912.

In addition to her parents and husband, Mrs. Michael is survived by four children, Pierce B., Marion S., Mary A., and Ruth E. Michael.

Man 'Buried' Twice Is Very Much Alive

Iowan Thought Dead on Two Occasions Turns Up Safe and Sound.

Creston, Iowa, July 20 (A.P.).—They started burying Mike Dolan in Oklahoma two years ago, but Mike's home by the fireside here again.

In Oklahoma, visiting his sister, he disappeared and a body was found that was identified as Mike's. So they buried him. A few months later Mike returned.

Last February a man registered as Mike Dolan died in a hotel here. People who knew the orignial Mike identified him, and so did his second wife. So they buried Mike again.

Recently Mike came back from Texas, where he had been working on a railroad, and two graves, one in Oklahoma and one here, thereby lost their identity.

Le Bourget Field Traffic Increases

French Airport Handles 17 Times More Goods Than in 1928.

Paris, July 20 (A.P.).—Records of Le Bourget airport for 1929 show nearly a seventeen-fold increase in value of goods imported to France by plane.

Imports at the field last year were valued at $140,000,000, compared to the 1928 figure of $8,430,000. Exports by air increased from $11,960,000 to $13,500,000 in value.

Included in the imports were heavy gold shipments, dogs and cloth from England, laces and furs from Belgium, fresh cut flowers, paintings and strings for musical instruments from the Netherlands.

GLASS OPPOSITION INDUCED BY CANNON

Virginia G. O. P. Will Meet August 30 to Name Senate Candidate.

ECHO OF SMITH FIGHT

Roanoke, Va., July 20 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Still determined to punish all Virginia office holders who supported former Gov. Al Smith of New York for the Presidency in 1928, Bishop James Cannon, of the Methodist Church South and Antisaloon League, has induced the Republicans to nominate a candidate to oppose Senator Carter Glass in November. The Republicans have selected August 30 as the date for a State convention at which the senatorial aspirant will be named.

Robert H. Angell, State chairman of the party, is being mentioned as the nominee, as is Bascom Slemp, former congressional representative from the Ninth district. A meeting of the State committee held here yesterday brought together most of the Republican office holders in the State, including Joseph L. Crupper, collector of customs for the Virginia district, and C. G. Smithers, United States marshal for the Second district, both recognized leaders of the party in this State.

Bishop Cannon, who led an anti-Smith movement last year to prevent the election of John Garland Pollard as governor, and brought up Prof. William Brown as his candidate, has urged all opponents of Tammany to defeat every man who supported Smith in 1928. Prof. Brown was the wors tbeaten candidate that ever ran for the governorship, Pollard's majority exceeding 75,000.

Senator Glass opposed Cannon during the presidential campaign. He was among the first to learn that the Bishop had had dealings with a bucket shop in New York but he did not bring this matter into the campaign.

Bishop Cannon, recognizing the folly of attempting to defeat Democrats by a third party movement, is now urging the support of the Republican nominee, who is certain to be dry, to defeat Glass.

Senator Glass is unopposed in the Democratic primary and his election in November is regarded as certain.

MISSING MAN FOUND VICTIM OF POTOMAC

Body of Charles Penn, Sought Since Friday, Located Near Steel Plant.

DEATH HELD ACCIDENT

The body of Charles E. Penn, 30 years old, of 317 Fifth street southeast, was found yesterday in the Potomac River near the steel plant by John L. Stewart, a watchman at the plant. Penn had been missing from his home since last Friday.

Stewart called harbor police, who were dragging the river for the man nearby, and they took the body to the District Morgue. It was identified by Henry A. Penn, a brother of the dead man. Search for Penn had continued since Saturday, when boys playing on the river bank found Penn's clothes. Relatives scouted a theory that the man had committed suicide, saying that he had no reason for such an act.

Death was attributed to accidental drowning by Dr. J. Ramsay Nevitt, District Coroner, after he had conducted a thorough investigation of circumstances surrounding the affair.

Witnesses told the coroner that Penn had been seen bathing alone and his relatives reported that he was unable to swim. The assumption was that he must have ventured beyond his depth and been unable to summon aid to get back to the shore.

Europe's Western Tip Put on Market

Palace on Westernmost Point of Portugal to Be Sold.

Montserrate, Portugal, July 20 (A.P.).—High maintenance costs and heavy taxation have forced on the market the Palace of Montserrate, a majestic mansion lying at the most westerly point of Europe.

It has an incomparable view of the Atlantic Ocean and has been in possession of the Cook family for several generations. It was built by James Knowles for Sir Francis Cook, first Viscount of Montserrate, but the present chatelain, Sir Herbert, surnamed the "Merchant Prince," is making only brief appearances here, being detained by business in England.

Not far from the palace, and belonging to it, is the "Cork Convent," so named because its interior is entirely lined with sheets of cork. The convent is partly hollowed out of a rock and was used as place of punishment for recalcitrant monks from the monastery of Pena.

In the cleft of the rock in the garden St. Honorius, it is said, passed fifteen years of his life, endeavoring, as Byron said, to "merit Heaven by making earth a hell."

Nude Cults Thrive On French Riviera

Colonists on Huge Estates Are Surrounded by High Walls.

Ste. Maxime, France, July 20 (A.P.). With the arrival of summer, nude cults began springing up like mushrooms in southern France. Already four have been located between Toulon and the Italian border.

Several years ago the police took action against a colony that occupied the top of a mountain behind Cannes. The German doctor who headed the colony was heavily fined and his 40 followers were given a fortnight to leave France. They started for Haiti, where they were told the winters would be less rigorous.

The new colonies live behind high walls surrounding huge estates, and in two cases have private beaches.

Bathing in the nude is a common night time diversion all along the Riviera. One group was surprised in the water one moonlight night by three men and the host had to pay 100 francs before the intruders would leave.

BAND AND DANCERS TO OFFER RECITAL

Third Program in Series at Sylvan Theater to Be Wednesday Night.

EVENT OPEN TO PUBLIC

The third event in the summer series of programs at the Sylvan Theater in the Monument Grounds will take place Wednesday night at 8 o'clock, when the United States Army Band, conducted by Capt. William J. Stannard, and the Tchernikoff-Gardiner dancers of this city, directed by Paul Tchernikoff and Lisa Gardiner, will offer a joint recital.

Original dance features on the program will include "The Garden Party" to be danced by Christine Stewart, Maurine Mulliner, Faye Rogers, Ann Vucinavich, Elizabeth Berkeley, Helen Clark, Alice Louise Hunter and Peggy Becker; a scarf dance by Alice Louise Hunter; and a stirring Mendelssohn march, danced by the ensemble, arranged especially for this program, and illustrative of the modern German technique.

Miss Gardiner will dance "Diana", and assisted by Misses Stewart and Hunter, will present "The Blue Danube." The final dance number will be an arrangement of the well known and popular "Yaqui Dance," this being the first occasion on which this number has been actually danced here, the arrangement following closely some of the ritual dances of the Yaqui Indians. The costumes have been reproduced by the dancers themselves, from old Mayan and Aztec designs.

The band numbers on Wednesday evening will include "The Washington Evening Star March" (Stannard); The Merry Wives of Windsor (Nicoli); Excerpts from "Sweethearts" (Herbert); Prelude from Suite Ancien (Hadley); Irish Tune from County Derry (Grainger); Excerpts from "Maryland" (Romberg); and the "American Army March" (Iassili).

The public is invited to all these summer time programs at the Sylvan Theater. In case of hard rain, preventing the program on Wednesday evening, it will be given Saturday night.

Franz Joseph Robe Shown by Church

Exhibit in Vienna Contains Rare Collection of Sacred Relics.

Vienna, July 20 (A.P.).—The christening robe of the late Emperor Franz Joseph is one of the curiosities in the exposition of church treasures of the imperial palace.

The robe was also used for the baptism of his brother Maximilian, Emperor of Mexico, and the rest of his brothers and sisters.

Said to be the most magnificent collection of church relics in the world, it has been kept under lock and key heretofore in the Capucine church in the palace.

Many reputed relics, including a thorn from the crown of Jesus and teeth of SS. Peter, Elizabeth, Joseph and Christopher are in the exhibit.

Safety Campaign Truck Drivers' Aim

Birmingham Operators Hit Negligence of Other Motorists.

Birmingham, Ala., July 20 (A.P.). Truck drivers of Birmingham have declared war upon the unsafe operation of motor vehicles.

More than 2,400 of them have enrolled in the "interfleet drivers' safety contest" sponsored by the Birmingham safety council. They represent 210 firms which operate trucks or automobiles.

At the end of each month a representative of each company makes a report to the safety council on drivers' records, and the council then issues a list of standings. An award will be made to the winning group.

Pontiff's English Tries U. S. Bishops

Pope Refuses to Resort to Interpreters During Audiences.

Vatican City, July 20 (A.P.).—Refusal of Pope Pius XI to permit interpreters at the quincennial audiences with his bishops has put the linguistic talents of American prelates to the test.

The Pope's English is not adequate for a complete audience and he makes exceptions to his rule only in unusual cases, such as bishops from the Far East. One visiting American, whose Latin was rather rusty, summoned up the German he had learned in his youth and carried on in that tongue.

European bishops do not have the same difficulty, for the head of the church speaks fluent German, French and Spanish in addition to his native Italian.

TWO DIE, TWO HURT IN SHOOTING ORGY

Higgins, of Harveys Lake, went to the Sordoni farm. Augmented by residents, who formed a posse, the Sordoni estate was surrounded. At dawn, Capt. Ruth, returning from a search of the countryside, was shot from ambush as he stepped from his machine.

Skopka fled to the woods, the posse in close pursuit. As his pursuers closed in on him, Skopka fired a shot over their heads and then fired the last shell into his brain.

Bogus Dry Agents Get Woman's $600

Thugs Return, Beat Couple in California Home and Rob Again.

San Francisco, July 20.—Operation of a gang of extortionists representing themselves as Federal prohibition agents was revealed in the East Bay district recently.

Three members of the gang forced Mrs. Leonard ("Chicken Mary") Halwick, owner of a roadhouse near Warm Springs, to pay them $600 tribute, she reported to Sheriff Driver, of Alameda County.

The alleged extortion occurred May 14, but Mrs. Halwick did not report it until after a member of the gang returned and robbed her and her husband of $40 after beating them.

Kitty Hawk Region Gets Phone Lines

Scene of Wright Brothers' Plane Experiments No Longer Isolated.

Elizabeth City, N. C., July 20 (A.P.). The isolated Kitty Hawk section of North Carolina's coast, where the Wright brothers held their epochal experiments with the airplane, has been connected with the outside world by telephone.

The connection was made by stretching a temporary cable across the Currituck Sound, which separates the area from the mainland. The terminals are Kitty Hawk and Point Harbor.

Later a permanent cable is to be constructed.

TREATY ADVOCATES TO PUSH FOR VOTES

chairman of the naval committee, has insisted that the treaty "hamstrings" the American Navy and leaves it in a disadvantageous position.

The treaty proponents, led by Senators Swanson, of Virginia, the ranking Democrat on the naval and foreign relations committees, and Reed and Robinson, have contended the treaty gives the Navy a balanced fleet and an opportunity to catch up in cruisers with Great Britain and Japan.

Proponents Show Strength.

All manner of reservations are pending, but the treaty proponents showed their strength Saturday, when they shouted down without record votes two attempts to amend the text of the treaty.

As soon as the text of the treaty had been read for amendments, Chairman Borah, of the foreign relations committee, submitted the resolution of ratification. This is now pending, and it is generally agreed that if any filibustering was intended against the treaty this week this resolution would have been blocked from introduction late Saturday.

The opponents are expected to center their efforts on the resolution of Senator Johnson providing that all of the eighteen 8-inch gun cruisers allowed the United States under the treaty may be completed within the six-year life of the pact, and the reservation of Senator Hale, stipulating that the United States still maintains the right to construct any type of cruiser within the total tonnage limit without regard to categories.

TO AVOID WASTE.

President Hoover's drive for reduction of expenditures in all departments of the Government is a determined effort to avoid any increase in taxation. He is asking department heads to cut down their expenses to below the amounts appropriated for the current year. In view of the fact that Congress appropriated $209,000,000, or 5 per cent, more during its last session than in 1929, rigid curtailment may be necessary to avoid a deficit.

The demand for economy is particularly acute at this time, because of the probability that revenue for the current year will be reduced as a result of the business depression. An expanding budget and a contracting income can bring the Government to grief in short order. President Hoover is to be commended for launching his economy program now before appropriations are spent, even though the anticipated reduction in revenue can not yet be estimated. There is no doubt that a considerable saving can be effected if the departments cooperate with the President. It will be difficult, however, to keep these agencies below their allowances when the money has already been appropriated. A constant vigil will be necessary.

This situation illustrates the caution with which the Government must proceed in launching a program to relieve unemployment. Most of the additional expenditures this year have been for projects that will give work to the unemployed and for relief of war veterans. These undertakings are worthy but also costly. Should this additional expense in a time of slack business result in higher taxes the net benefit to the country might be negligible. Higher taxes swallow up the benefit of more employment by driving some concerns out of business and causing others to curtail their activities.

If the President is able to carry out the development program without additional tax burdens he will deserve the gratitude of the whole country. It is especially important that a tax increase be avoided at this time. Business is on the way to recovery and ought not to be hindered by uncertainty as to tax rates. Moreover, the Government will not be able to maintain its present pace in the development of public works. As the country resumes its normal industrial strides Federal building activities must return to normal also. That will mean additional men turned back to private enterprise. Commerce and industry should be ready to absorb them. This whole process of getting back to normal conditions would be seriously retarded by higher taxes.

President Hoover has been successful in his efforts to halt the economic recession. He enlisted cooperation of industrial chiefs in an effort to maintain production, wherever possible, and he launched a program of public improvements, with the assistance of the States, that has given employment to thousands. It is hoped that he may now succeed in curtailing expenses, so that increased taxation will not be necessary.

FREEDOM OF THE AIR.

Now the cry goes up for "freedom of the air." At various times the equilibrium of the world has been upset by demands for freedom of the land and freedom of the seas; but now it's freedom of the air. How modern it sounds! A few decades ago one would have laughed at the idea of "freedom of the air," and quoted that common old simile, as free as the air. Indeed, the mind of man could conceive of nothing more libre than the great open spaces overhead. But now it is quite possible to tune one's ear to the future and "preproduce" orations in Congress on this momentous issue.

Whence comes this appeal against encroachment upon man's common right to the atmosphere about him? The immediate demand is from the California department of agriculture. It speaks of an American farmers' campaign for "freedom of the air," meaning a movement to reserve more short wave lengths for transmission of crop and market news. But this is only one cry from a vociferous multitude.

Freedom of the air? There are cries of one frantic group against radio monopoly; the defiant protests of another against the deafening drone of airplanes overhead; the indignant pleas of another against factories that blacken the air with smoke, and the feeble protests of others who can't sleep at night because of the music that is wafted to their ears from a neighbor's apartment. The courts have undertaken to define the limit of air space that one may claim over his own property. Even then there can be no guarantee that some parachute jumper will not land, or some engine crash, in the midst of one's garden. And nothing has been invented to stop noise at the property line.

No one is so old-fashioned as to believe in freedom of the air. But every one seems modern enough to take liberties with it. This former emblem of freedom is now the medium through which one's peace and contentment are imposed upon. Will it some day be necessary to secure permits to breathe?

ZARO AGHA.

When a country receives a visit from one so venerable as Zaro Agha, the Turk of 156 summers, it can not help being interested. Zaro has the distinction of being just 13 years older than the nation he is visiting, and it must be admitted that quite a bit of history has been written since the United States raised its banners. He holds the distinction of having fought against Napoleon, and has taken part in four other wars, the last one at the age of 104. He comes out of an age that is little known to this generation, and yet his very presence at the age of 156 is sufficient to remind us that a century and a half is but a mighty thin slice off from Time.

Ancient as he is, Zaro seems to make no pretense to being the oldest man in the world. China boasts of veterans who might look upon him as a youth, and many cases of longevity quite as remarkable as his are known to science. Looking back to biblical days, however, the boldest claim of longevity in modern times becomes insignificant. Zaro has lived less than three times the normal span of life in modern civilization, which does not seem unreasonable in rare cases.

Little significance is to be attached to the report that this ancient Turk has never touched liquor. He is at an age where it is perhaps impossible for him to remember what he did in his youth. He doesn't even recall the names of his eleven wives, except the one who is living, and he has forgotten the names of his numerous children. To what can his survival be attributed? Probably to many causes, chief of which are a remarkable physique and a moderate life. The fact that he acquired a new set of teeth at 105 indicates something unusual about his physical make-up. Nor should it be forgotten that he comes out of the East, where life is not so intensive as it is in the Western world.

Zaro looks as if he might be good for many more years, if he continues to live the life that has brought him to his present state. But he must beware of the strenuous life in America. The trip may cost him several precious years.

POOR FORESTRY SHOWING.

The Department of Agriculture reports that 111,175 acres were forested by the principal agencies engaged in reforestation in the United States in 1929. The total acreage set out included 107,500 acres in the United States, 2,000 acres in Hawaii, and 1,500 acres in Porto Rico. Approximately 31,500 acres were planted by States and Territories, 5,900 by municipalities, 539 by schools and colleges, and 1,500 by "other organizations." Plantings by farmers for the extension or improvement of woodlots and windbreaks amounted to 24,750 acres, and plantings by "other individuals" accounted for 3,650 acres, while the Forest Service planted 18,000 acres in the national forests. Industrial organizations planted 25,088 acres during the year.

The disparity between plantings by industry and plantings by other agencies and individuals is discouraging. Industry planted 25,000 acres to trees during the year, while other agencies planted some 85,000 acres. It is industry that gobbles up the forests, but, judging by the record, industry does not find it profitable to restore forests. Unless those who earn their living from the forests undertake to replace the trees they cut down, the woodlands will disappear.

One factor that discourages commercial reforestation is taxation. It takes a good many years to bring a tree crop to harvest and, meanwhile, taxes are levied upon acres devoted to trees at the same rate as upon unimproved acres. If the States generally would work out a scheme of reduced taxation for forest acres, the cause of reforestation would receive decided impetus. If they were relieved of tax burdens during the growing years, paper companies might plant annually far more than the 10,000 acres they planted in 1929, lumber companies more than the 8,732 acres, and water and power companies more than 3,000 acres. But they have made a miserable showing, taxes or no taxes.

EDUCATIONAL FRAUDS.

The Federal Board of Tax Appeals has just been called upon to rule on what is and what is not an educational institution. The ruling is of far-reaching importance, because educational institutions are not only exempt from taxation, but benefactors who contribute to their budgets are allowed to deduct such contributions in computing their income tax. These provisions are aimed to encourage any legitimate educational undertaking. It has become necessary to draw a line between such institutions and organizations that are devoted to radical propaganda.

The board ruled that the League of Industrial Democracy was not an institution "organized and operated exclusively for educational purposes," and therefore held that contributions to it could not be deducted in making an income tax return. Judge C. Rogers Arundell, who wrote the opinion, found that the league was "far from being devoted to educating in the sense of presenting both sides of the matter in which it is interested." It advocated "drastic political and economic changes which are directly at odds with existing economic theories and practices upon which society is founded in this country and which pervade our system of government."

Congress would indeed be inconsistent if it sought to foster agencies designed to bring about destruction of the Government. The tax board decided, with good judgment, that Congress never intended to include such agencies within that class of institutions that are given aid as a matter of public policy or as "aids to good government." It can not be seriously contended that Congress should extend benefits to a group that teaches communism. To exempt from taxation is virtually to make a contribution from the Treasury. It is ridiculous to ask that the taxpayers be called upon for a contribution to any organization that is trying to overthrow the existing social order.

The privilege of exemption from taxation should be reserved for legitimate educational institutions. Radical organizations can not be included in that classification by any stretch of the imagination. In view of the tax board's decision it would be well to check up on all radical agencies that are masquerading under the guise of educational institutions.

STREET RAILWAY FARES.

The street railway companies of Washington, under a ruling rendered Saturday by Justice Jennings Bailey, of the District of Columbia Supreme Court, are authorized to raise the fare to 10 cents cash, or four tokens for 30 cents. The court ruled that the rate of fare established by the Public Utilities Commission is, in effect, confiscatory, in that it does not enable the companies to earn an adequate return upon their valuations as fixed by an earlier court decision. The commission contended that the valuation as fixed was improper, and that adjustment of the fare scale requires prior revaluation. The court, however, called attention to the fact that the petition under consideration was not a proceeding for the valuation of the properties, and it held that, since the companies were earning but 3.57 and 4.73 per cent on the valuations as fixed, modified by subsequent net additions and excluding items disputed by the commission, they were entitled to the higher fares. The commission will appeal from the decision, but the companies are making preparation to put the new tariffs into effect upon the signing of the decree.

It may be doubted that increased fares would add to the revenues of the companies. Washington is now in the throes of a transportation war. The streets are filled with cut-rate taxicabs which are taking patronage from the street railways. It may be true that some of the taxicabs are operated at a loss, but others take their places as the losers drop out. An increase in street railway fares may drive patronage from street cars to taxis and buses. An increase at this time would play directly into the hands of the taxi companies that have come into being as a result of the transportation war.

The streets railway companies are in the merchandising business. Their stock is transportation, the sale of which is governed by the same rules of merchandising as govern the sale of dry goods or groceries. Cut-rate competition can not be met by increasing prices. The street railway companies might be able to increase their business by reducing fares, but it is hard to understand how they can gain more patronage by increasing their fares.

A record-breaking cantaloupe crop is reported. Some pumpkins!

WHEAT FALLACIES

From the Wall Street Journal.

Farmers, suffering the disastrous results of a year's experiment in a new system of marketing, are now being asked to subject themselves to another experiment based on fallacious reasoning and dangerous practice. This proposed experiment is epitomized in an address of the president of the Agricultural Corporation of Maryland to a meeting of wheat growers in Baltimore. He said, in part:

> The Nation is producing 200,000,000 bushels more than can be used; if it were not for that we could be getting 42 cents a bushel more, for that is the tariff on imported wheat.
> Farmers Grain Corporation can bring up the price of wheat if it can get hold of one-half or three-quarters of the Nation's crop.

This is a remarkable statement, exhorting the farmers to reduce production to a point below the Nation's needs, so that the Grain Corporation with unlimited funds could step in and secure a large percentage of the bread supply. Operating behind the tariff wall it could then create a monopoly and, with the wheat supply cornered, raise the price 40-odd cents a bushel. Should the private flour millers attempt such a monopoly they would be jailed, under the provisions of the Sherman and Clayton laws.

But aside from the ethics of any proposed cornering of the bread supply the farmers themselves would lose just as surely as they have lost in the now discredited "stabilization" plan. First, they could not get the full 42 cents a bushel increase, for that would raise the price to a level where other producers could ship in wheat. But if this monopoly could be carried out and the price maintained even 40 cents above the world level, the farmers would not be making all of that as net gain.

Cutting off 200,000,000 bushels from wheat production would leave in average years a crop of 600,000,000 bushels. On this the increase of 40 cents would apply, a part of which, but not all, would go to the producers. At the same time they would be losing the sale of 200,000,000 bushels more at the world price. This would not quite wipe out the increased price on 600,000,000 bushels, but the difference would not average more than $20 for each of the 2,000,000 farmers who produce wheat.

Then, too, the people are entitled to consideration. A corner on 600,000,000 bushels of wheat which raised the price 40 cents a bushel would make the total increase $240,000,000 in the first instance. But it would not stop there, for wheat must go through several hands before it reaches the consumer's table and every handling would increase the cost.

Farm relief has been a succession of fallacies doomed from the start to fail. They may be excused as honest but expensive mistakes. But certainly there is no palliation to be offered for a plan involving a cornering and a monopoly of an essential food supply.

SOUTH AFRICAN BULBS.

Flower lovers and bulb growers in this country may now look forward to domestic production of the chincherichee, a flowering bulb of South America, famous for its beauty and its keeping qualities. In cooperation with bulb growers, the United States Department of Agriculture has been trying to establish the chincherichee in this country, and these efforts seem to be meeting with success, according to Mr. David Griffiths, bulb specialist of the department.

Propagation of the plant in the United States has been from imported seed, largely, although seed is now being produced in greenhouses in the East and in the open in California. The plants are easily forced in the greenhouse, says Dr. Griffiths, but require a rather long period to come into flower. When potted in November they will come into flower for Easter. Plants grown at the Arlington experimental farm in Virginia this spring began blossoming the middle of March and continued until the middle of May.

The wonderful keeping quality of the blossoms has few parallels, says Dr. Griffiths. Cut flowers shipped from South Africa to London keep in good condition for two weeks afterward. One instance is known of a reshipment from London to the United States, and then the stock was progagated from the bulblets produced.

The flowers are white, and usually about three-fourths of an inch in diameter. They are borne on spikes from 3 to 8 inches in length. Flowering begins at the bottom of the spikes and continues as the spikes develop. Although the chincherichee is a member of the lily family, it does not bear cloes resemblance to any of our common flowers.

FAITH.

I hear it often said there is no proof
Of anything beyond this little day;
That all that is of beauty meets decay;
That vain is every wall and floor and roof;
That nothing has been kept from us aloof,
The noblest and the basest pass away;
Still one small voice insistent seems to say:
"Life's tapestry must have its web and woof.

"The threads of pain and pleasure interweave,
This is a corner of the great design.
This little world we enter but to leave,
All mortal things make way for things divine,
Men grow in strength and wisdom not in vain
But ampler life and progress to attain."

If You Are Chasing a Thief, Do You Follow the Road Suggested by His Friends?

By ROBERT QUILLEN

THE jury must find a verdict in accordance with the law and the evidence.

It is so instructed by the court.

Yet frequently the verdict returned is entirely out of harmony with the facts as presented by witnesses.

When that occurs, suspicious people assume that the jury disregarded the evidence because of prejudice or bribery.

In many instances, however, the contrast between testimony and verdict is proof of the jury's intelligence.

It was sufficiently intelligent to distinguish between testimony and evidence.

That distinction is so rarely made that the need of making it should be impressed on the mind of every man drawn for jury service.

When the court instructs the jury to find a verdict in accordance with the evidence, members of the jury who are conscientious and literal minded feel bound to accept the testimony of witnesses at its face value and find a verdict in harmony with it.

They feel handicapped by the court's instructions, as though they had been denied the right to use their own judgment, and the verdict they find does not express their convictions.

"We had to find him innocent," they say, "because there wasn't enough evidence to convict him; but we had no doubt of his guilt."

Intelligent juries make no such farce of justice.

They are not impressed by testimony, but only by evidence.

Evidence is the thing that is evident.

The thing that is evident is clear, plain, unmistakable—the thing that is true.

If it is evident that a witness is lying, then the evidence contradicts and disproves his testimony.

To accept his testimony as the truth would be to disregard the evidence.

The jury is not required to accept or believe any testimony presented.

Its one duty is to sift the testimony and out of the welter of conflicting lies and errors to find if possible the thing that is evident.

It must decide whether the accused is guilty or innocent, and it must judge by the evidence, but it must examine the testimony in search of evidence—not accept as evidence the testimony given.

Ten liars declaring a man innocent is sufficient evidence that he is guilty.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

AN INTERVIEW WITH MR. COOLIDGE.

Q.—Mr. Coolidge, how does it seem to be a newspaper man?

A.—Very good. I had a wrong impression of it for years.

Q.—How so?

A.—I always thought it required hard work.

Q.—Do you consider preparation for a newspaper career difficult?

A.—Well, it does seem to me that eight years in the White House are a little excessive. Still, the training a man gets for a newspaper job as President of the United States is very helpful.

Q.—Do you think it possible for a man to be a good newspaper man without ever having been President?

A.—Possible, perhaps, but not probable. Of course, a man may have such unusual talents that he may succeed in the newspaper profession and command a high salary, but one term in the Presidency certainly makes his future more certain.

Q.—As a boy, did you ever want to enter newspaper work?

A.—Yes, but it seemed quite hopeless.

Q.—Why?

A.—Because at that time I didn't think there was any chance of ever getting the necessary Washington training.

Q.—Do you find writing at all difficult?

A.—It might become a little arduous after the third paragraph, but I never go that far.

* * * *

Q.—Do you like writing better than the insurance business?

A.—An author has one big advantage over an insurance man; none of the clients can talk back.

Q.—Do you miss being President?

A.—Not in a year like this, mister.

Q.—You don't feel, we take it, that you made a mistake in not running for another term?

A.—Does an aviator make a mistake when he jumps before the crash?

Q.—Mr. Coolidge, when you are writing do you use your right or left hand?

A.—Both. I write with my right hand for the syndicate and with my left for the magazines.

Q.—At one and the same time?

A.—Certainly. It was a little difficult at first, but this is an age of production.

Q.—Do you have to have a quiet place to work?

A.—Not necessarily. I've got it down to a system.

Q.—What system?

A.—I make my stuff so brief that I can bat it all out between noises.

Q.—Do you ever suffer from a lack of ideas?

A.—No. If the stuff reads that way it must be the way the papers set it up.

Q.—Do you anticipate remaining in newspaper work, Mr. Coolidge?

A.—Until 1932, at least.

Q.—At that time you may run for the Presidency again?

A.—Not unless they raise the salary. I'm getting so much money as a newspaper man that to take the office at the present salary would be an enormous sacrifice.

Q.—Have you any advice to give to young men desiring to enter the newspaper profession, Mr. Coolidge?

A.—Yes. Serve one term as President, and then keep the stuff short and snappy!

King Alfonso has restored all the inhumane practices of the bull fight, including the use of explosive darts in the flesh of the animals. Just a big-hearted boy!

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Puritan Urges Promulgation of Freedom of the Seas as Necessary to Independence.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Is there no self-respect or patriotism in the country? We have as much right as Great Britain to make sea law, but ours is the doctrine of John Marshall, that the sea is the common highway of nations, and no state or group of states has a right to rule it. If we waive the opportunity now to promulgate it, we thereby become the servitor of England. Are we to sit in judgment on all European questions? The only alternative, if we waive the freedom of the seas, is to allow England and France to decide with whom we shall trade.

It is no proof of "aggression" for a country to hesitate to submit a vital question for arbitration by the League of Nations, controlled by England and France, which has rendered such unjust decisions. In 1812 we fought England when she was fighting an "aggressive state," a "covenant-breaking state" — France. Under this scheme it may be utterly against our welfare; we may think the blockaded nation has justice on its side. No matter. We must allow England and France to decide for us whether we shall trade with their enemy or not. For an "aggressive nation" is any nation against whom England happens to wage war. Why have any navy at all? Why not save money by giving our ships to England and France?

It is madness to have such a question open when no nation is in any position to say us nay.

By letting freedom of the seas go by default we are virtually underwriting not merely the Versailles and other treaties; we are underwriting the vagaries of French and English diplomacy. It will not even insure peace with England and France. The upshot of our alliance with France was actual warfare with her on the seas. Our proclamation of the freedom of the seas would be decisive. Four times we have gone to war in defense of our right to free use of the ocean. Is not that enough?

PURITAN.

Congress Should Declare for a Full Treaty Navy Before Ratifying the Treaty.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The resolution offered by Senator Walsh, of Massachusetts, should be adopted by all means. It declares that the Senate favors building up the Navy to the limit allowed by the London treaty.

A year ago public sentiment favored a treaty of limitation on condition that the United States should have a navy equal in strength to the British navy. Unless American ships are built there will be no parity. The treaty does not automatically provide parity, because no foreign vessels are scrapped. The refusal of others to scrap forces the United States to build up.

Unless Congress now establishes the policy of building up to the treaty limitation, there will surely be a movement to prevent new construction. The pacifists will argue that now that a treaty has been made there is no need for naval vessels. That is an insane delusion, but it possesses the minds of pacifists, who are now numerous and influential.

The treaty is an idiotic document unless it is made practicable by the building of ships within the limitations. No treaty is necessary if the United States intends to abolish the navy. All other nations would agree to that without the formality of a treaty. What the people want is a Navy as well as naval limitation. If they must choose between the two they will have a navy.

Zaro Agha Will Find This a Land of Opportunity, Now That He has Finally Made Up His Mind.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Zaro Agha, of Turkey, has come to the United States to make a little money. He is 156 years old. Most of his life has been spent in carrying pianos, although he varied this monotony a little in several wars, during which he carried cannons. In addition to these wars, he was married twelve times.

Zaro Agha is apparently good material for American citizenship. He seems to be conservative, and he is not too hasty in making decisions. Although motor trucks may prove highly competitive, there is still an opportunity in this country for enterprising piano carriers on account of the scrapping of pianos to make way for radio sets. No one can tell when wars may come, and if they should come Zaro Agha would be useful in shifting 16-inch guns.

The one difficulty that Zaro Agha will encounter in this country is the retention of his youthful and buoyant spirit. Already, since arriving in New York, he is said to have aged considerably, although New York stock brokers of experience assert that he still has far to go before he will feel as old as they do.

Coolidge Articles Should Be Republished in Book Form.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Every morning I have taken particular pride in reading the front page article in your paper known under the title, "Calvin Coolidge Says." Personally, I think the articles are wonderful, and I read them not once but several times.

They are full of real meat, very instructive and enlighening to any citizen. I have heard my friends and acquaintances speak in the same vein.

As a suggestion, if these things are in order with you, I believe if all these articles were compiled in book form and published at a later date you would find a ready sale for same, as they would or should be read by every American citizen.

We always hear of the bad we do, but seldom of the good. So, this letter is simply a line to show appreciation of what I am enjoying in reading The Post every morning.

EVENTS OF INTEREST IN SOCIETY CIRCLES OF CAPITAL

Former Foes' Descendants Will Be Wed

Scott-Morrill Vows Will Link Families Noted in Civil War.

TIME, a wonderful healer, brings peace to opposing sides. More than sixty-five years ago the late Gen. Thomas Muldrup Logan, a native of South Carolina, but at that time a resident of Virginia, was in command of a brigade in the Confederate army—Lee's Army of Northern Virginia. He was famed as a courageous and dashing cavalry officer and leader, and, taking part in most of the major engagements of the Civil War, was cited for bravery in action.

At the same time, Gen. John Fred Pierson, of New York, held a similar rank in the Army of the Potomac. He enlisted as a private in the Seventh Regiment, New York Infantry Guard, in 1857, and at the beginning of the war was a captain. He rapidly attained the rank of general for "gallant and meritorious" service.

And now, three generations later, descendants of these two opponents will be united. The engagement of Miss Augusta Rhodes Scott, daughter of Mrs. Edward W. Scott and the late Mr. Scott, of Virginia, and a granddaughter of Gen. Pierson, to Mr. Logan Morrill, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albery Henry Morrill, of Virginia and Cincinnati, and grandson of Gen. Logan, has been recently announced.

For two generations these families have been friends and neighbors in Virginia. The wedding will take place on September 3 at Donegal, the home of Miss Scott, on the James River, a few miles below Algoma, the famous Logan homestead. Donegal is in Albemarle County, facing east, and the home of Mr. Morrill, on the opposite hills, in Buckingham County, looks toward the Blue Ridge Mountains.

Miss Scott, who made her debut last season in Charlottesville and in Richmond, was educated in Virginia and completed her studies abroad. Last spring she was honored by being chosen princess of the annual apple blossom festival at Winchester. Her mother is the daughter of Gen. Pierson.

Mr. Morrill is a graduate of Princeton University, and since his graduation has been engaged in business in Cincinnati. His mother, the former Miss Lily Logan, was a daughter of Gen. Logan.

Mr. and Mrs. Baker Arrive in New York.

The former Director of the Mint, Mr. Raymond T. Baker, and Mrs. Baker are passing a short time at the Ambassador in New York, where they came from Europe on the Mauretania. They will go to Newport for the remainder of the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. John Hick, of Chevy Chase, Md., are passing some time at the Edgewater Beach Hotel on the North Shore, in Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. Abe Liebman and their daughter, Miss Deborah Mae Leibman, have motored to Bedford Springs, Pa., to pass a fortnight, and are guests at Bedford Springs Hotel.

Ecuadorian Attache To Sail Wednesday.

The Attache of the Legation of Ecuador, Senor Don Carlos Mantilla O., will sail Wednesday on the Santa Elisa to pass two months with his parents at their home in Quito. His father, Senor Carlos Mantilla, is editor and publisher of El Commerciale in Quito.

Mr. and Mrs. L. Emory White have closed their apartment at the Cavalier Hotel and will go to Rehoboth Beach for a short stay, after which they will motor through Pennsylvania and Ohio.

Lieut. Col. and Mrs. Fielding H. Garrison, of Baltimore, have announced the marriage of their daughter, Miss Shirley Elinor Garrison, to Johnson Thomas Hearn, jr., of Washington on Saturday.

Col. Garrison, U. S. A., retired, is librarian of the William H. Welch Medical Library and lecturer at the Johns Hopkins Institute of Medical History.

Miss Kinsolving to Wed Mr. John N. Brown.

A wedding of widespread interest will take place October 18, when Miss Anne Seddon Kinsolving, daughter of the Rev. Dr. and Mrs. Arthur Barksdale Kingsolving, of Baltimore, will be married to Mr. John Nicholas Brown, son of the late John Nicholas Brown and Mrs. Brown, of Providence, R. I. The ceremony will be performed at St. Paul's Protestant Episcopal Church, of which Dr. Kingsolving is the rector, and will be followed by a reception at St. Paul's rectory. After a wedding journey in this country the bride and bridegroom will go abroad for a year and on their return will have the choice of living in Providence, New York, Boston or Newport, in all of which places Mr. Brown has establishments. He also has an ocean yacht, on which they will cruise at their pleasure. Miss Kinsolving is spending a week at Newport, where she is the guest of Mr. Brown's mother at Harbor View.

Mr. and Mrs. John Tonkin, accompanied by their daughter, Miss M. Elizabeth Tonkin, sailed last Friday for Plymouth, England. They will return to this country the early part of October.

With a party of friends Miss Norvell Munford spent the week-end with Mrs. Arthur Chichester, near Leesburg, Va.

Engaged

Underwood & Underwood.

MISS KATHERINE WICKERT ALBAUGH, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry C. Albaugh, of Hanover, Pa., whose engagement to Mr. Thomas King Randall, of Washington, is announced.

Bryns Hosts At Luncheon In Montreal

Norwegian Official and Wife Remembered in Capital.

The Norwegian Consul General in Montreal, Canada, and Mme. Helmar Bryn entertained at a luncheon last week at their apartment in the Chateau in honor of Miss Laura Harlan. The guests included the American Consul General and Mrs. Wesley Frost, the Hungarian Consul General and Mme. Winter, and the Polish Consul General, Mr. Strachewsky.

Mr. and Mme. Bryn are well remembered in Washington, where the former was Norwegian Minister for many years, retiring from his post some years ago. Last spring he received his appointment to Montreal. One of their daughters, Mrs. Francis Winslow, formerly Miss Laura Bryn, makes her home in Georgetown, and Miss Inger Bryn, the other daughter, is now in New York. They were among the most charming and popular of the diplomatic debutantes several years ago.

Edges Take Up Summer Home In Old Chateau

Envoy, Wife and Children in District Favored by Corot.

The American Ambassador to Paris and Mrs. Walter Edge, with their children, have just taken up their summer residence in the Chateau de la Ronce, a handsome old sixteneth century structure at Ville d'Avray. They gave their last formal reception of the season at the embassy in Paris on July 4, and Mrs. Edge intends to do little entertaining during the summer.

It is well known that Ville d'Avray is rich in the souvenirs of Jean Batiste Camille Corot, who found many of his most characteristic subjects there along the borders of the twin ponds. He favored particularly the valley and the forest known as the Bois des Fraussesreposes, a wooded ridge occupying the high ground between Ville d'Avray, Sevres and Versailles, where the painter lived at that time. Not far away there is a monument erected to his memory.

The United States Ambassador to Poland and Mrs. John North Willys have arrived in Paris from Warsaw to pass the summer with their daughter, Senora Luis de Aguirre. They were hosts at a large dinner there last week before leaving for Deauville to attend the French national fete.

It is almost an exact duplicate of the home of Horatio Sharpe, provincial governor of Maryland, in colonial days. Mrs. Walker prefers life in Washington during much of the year, however, having maintained her apartment at the Hay-Adams throughout last winter and spring.

Bad Business

This man is making two serious mistakes. He is writing a letter by hand, which, in the business world, is bad form. . . and he is not going to have a carbon copy, which is bad business.

And on top of all this he is punishing himself by doing the job in the hardest possible way.

It is much easier to write with Corona than by hand.

HIDE IN THE DARK

By FRANCES NOYES HART
Author of "The Bellamy Trial"

It was an old room; a hundred years ago it had been younger, and filled with laughter and candlelight and the sound of music and dancing feet. It had known other things well, too—that strange thing called life, that stranger thing called love and that strangest thing of all called death. It was in such a room at Lady Court that the thirteen March Hares now assembled on Halloween eve.

Time: All-Hallows Eve.
Place: Lady Court, an old manor house south of Washington.

Cast of Characters.

Lindy Marsden—Lonely, lovely, a dark-eyed romancist, and mistress of Lady Court.

Doug King—Hilarious and jovial, the life of every party and the founder of the March Hares.

Neil Sheridan—Sleek, dark, highly successful in his career as a lawyer and husband of—

Trudi—Wise, witty and chic, with all the ease and manner of a grand duchess and the lack of manners of a Bahwite.

Chatty Ross—Small, gay, blindly adoring wife of—

Tom Ross—the least successful man in the room, shabby and sensitive among his wealthy friends.

Hanna Dart—A gentle lady, immaculately beautiful, whose reserve masks a deep affection for her husband.

Gavin Dart—A rather tired and immensely successful business man of 50, with shrewd, dark eyes and steel-gray hair.

Ray Hardy—The youngest member of the party, not long married and overwhelmingly in love with—

Joel Hardy—Her charming and irresistible husband, who has not grown 5 minutes older in the last ten years.

Jill Leighton—Graceful and gracious, step-sister of that legendary Sunny, the beloved girls, whose strange death ten years ago still lay like a shadow over the gay group.

Larry Redmond—An agreeable young banker, who can not understand why Jill hates him.

Kit Baird, wanderer and adventurer in strange lands, who, in his casual way, does every romantic thing magnificently well.

A Party of Thirteen.

THE room was waiting. It was an old room; a hundred years ago it had been younger and filled with laughter and candle light and the sound of music and dancing feet . . . and that fainter sound of hearts beating and hearts breaking—the room knew that sound well. It had known other things well, too, even then—that strange thing called life, that stranger thing called love, that strangest thing of all called death—even 100 years ago these were as familiar to it as the winds that blew through its great windows or as the shadows that flitted across its high, paneled walls.

It is still beautiful, with the imperishable beauty of a woman whose bones under her fine flesh are so essentially right, so exquisitely proportioned, that age and neglect, hunger and sorrow and loss have left her lovelier than ever. Long since the pale ivory paneling of its walls has deepened into amber, the peacock blue of the damask curtains has faded to turquoise and jade, the gilt of the great clouded mirrors has deepened and tarnished—deep in its dust and dreams it has slept, heedless of the passing years, tramping relentlessly across a burning world—heedless of life itself, far from its tall barred doors.

Coming Back to Life.

And now, not an hour since, rough, dark hands have set all the crystals of its girandoles and chandeliers to ringing their little bells in protest at this rude freeing of them from their discreet veils of dust; they have unrolled the Persian rugs huddled together so comforatbly in the far corners—rugs that had been old when the room was new, and that now spread their beauty gently, like little pools of changing water. Those same hands have twitched carelessly away the sheets beneath which the furniture crouched quietly, once more releasing the beauty of wood so shiningly pale that it was golden—so shiningly dark that it was black—releasing, too, the faint shimmer of silks and damasks and brocades, repeatingly endlessly the drowned harmonies of sea weeds and sea flowers.

The love seats that flank the great fireplace had once struck a braver note of heartening red, but they, too, have suffered a sea change into coral, faint and strange; so has the huge sofa that faces it, and any stray mermaid would feel at home searching for treasure in the tall lacquered chests beneath the palladium windows that break the panel walls at either end.

The hands have gone now, leaving behind them a room drowned in beauty and strangeness and silence—an old room, waking slowly and painfully from old dreams. For a long time it has had only the shadows and the wind for tenants, but on this late October evening it stirs and murmurs and holds its breath to listen. What does it hear coming to it down the years—those lost and unforgotten sounds of dancing feet and laughter? Something else with them? Something else unforgotten, too? Perhaps it is only the wind—but the room shivers and draws its shadows closer about it, as though it were cold. And suddenly the air without is filled with voices and the voices are filled with laughter. There are feet on the threshold, hands at the door—the room, grave and beautiful and silent, draws the shadows closer still. Life is coming back to it once more . . . and the room is afraid. . . .

A Stubborn Entrance.

"Doug! Doug, did I give those other keys to you? I can't make this wretched thing work at all, it won't even turn half way."

"Here, let me have a go at it. No, that's no good."

"Lindy, Lin-dy! Do we tell the chauffeur not to come back till Wednesday afternoon? What time did you order yours?"

"Four o'clock. Look out, Larry; if you twist it like that you'll snap it off."

"'Lindy, for the love of liberty, get that door open. I'm frozen clear through the marrow of my bones. Oh, —and the room, invaded by that sudden flood of light and laughter, laughs God be thanked!"

The door cracks, yields, swings wide, too, and loses its shadows with a lovely gesture of welcome.

"Oh, Mrs. Marsden, what an absolutely divine room"

"I'm glad you like it—it's yours, too. And don't dare to call me Mrs. Marsden; Lindy's not a bad name at all, and I've found out already from Joel that you're Ray. Now are we all here? Two Darts, two Hardys, two Rosses, two Sheridans—that's eight, and Kit, Larry, Jill, Doug, and me—how many is that? Thirteen? Oh, it's too perfect." She lifted a dramatic hand. "It was All Hallowe'en; the long autumn shadows were just beginning to fall as the thirteen tired travelers drew up about the great fire——"

"The trouble with you, love," remarked the girl called Trudi, bitterly, "is that you let your imagination run away with you. The thirteen weary travelers is a good realistic touch, but when it comes to great fires—well, I only hope to heaven that the spirit of prophecy is descending on you."

Fire and Food.

"A fire would be nice, wouldn't it?" murmured Lindy Marsden, stripping off her pale suede gloves lazily. 'Kit, you used to be the fireman, didn't you?"

"The firemen by all means," said the red-headed young man by the door. "The best builder of fires since Nero, but neither a wood-chopper nor a beast of burden. The only material for fires that I see around here is some rather nice Sheraton furniture."

"Oh, dear!" mourned Lindy contritely. "I told that worthless darky if he didn't have every single thing ready for us before he cleared out for Washington, he needn't ever come back. I wish to goodness I hadn't given him a holiday! It's a good quarter of a mile to the woodshed, isn't it?"

"Never mind—Little Lindy shan't get cold while Doug's here—'On our way, boys!'"

"Hey!" protested Trudi vehemently. "Little Lindy, indeed! How about little Trudi, you great galoot? A quarter of a mile to the woodshed, says she! Well, there are more ways of killing a cat than stuffing it with butter, girls and boys. How far is it to the icebox?"

"First turn to the right through that door," said Lindy, and added mildly, "It's probably empty."

"Ah, well, that's easily remedied. Doug shall come along and run a little water up my sleeve, and I'll bring you back as pretty a collection of ice cubes as ever you saw in all your born days. No loitering around while we're gone now, children."

A Slight Interruption.

Lindy Marsden murmured dutifully, "Wait a minute, I'll come, too, to see if there is any wood out there," and she slipped lightly off in the wake of a charming, husky voice and a deep booming one. As they died away, a man's voice said judicially from the shadows:

"Trudi's immense. Every day in every way she has gotten better and better.

"Ten years," murmured Kit Baird. "I hope the rest of you are as nice as that when you get your hats off and a word in edgewise. Does she always run on like that, Sherry?"

"More," said Sherry cheerfully, emerging from the shadows with a bottle, and placing it tenderly beside three others on the mantelpiece. "What you've just been listening to is one of her silent, brooding spells. They come over her every now and then. Ever see a bigger and better shaker than that, Hanna?"

The blond vision by the empty fireplace huddled deeper into her sables and murmured, "not ever" in obligingly impressed tones and the quiet man beside her said, pleasantly, "I don't want to introduce a jarring note, but I do think that it would simplify matters if I had the faintest idea as to who some of you are? My own humble role is that of Hanna's husband."

Among Those Present.

"Do you honestly mean that Hanna hasn't spent her married life telling you about us?" inquired the dark young man that some one had called Joel in obvious amazement. "I give you my word that since I acquired Ray I've spent virtually every minute describing all of you with such eloquence and accuracy that she could have walked straight up to Chatty in the street and said, 'Hello! You're Chatty Ross, aren't you?'"

Chatty, thus evoked, gave a little bounce of irrepressible delight, her small round face suffused with friendliness and pleasure.

"Oh, Joel, how darling. Did you describe Tom, too?"

"Every blooming one of you. Hanna, I'm ashamed of you." Hanna made a small, propitiatory sound, smiling vaguely, but radiantly. Mr. Dart, at your service. Would you like them to step up one at a time?"

Neill Sheridan, busy with cocktail shaker and bottle, inquired plaintively, "You aren't pretending that you don't know Trudi and me, are you, Dart? Or Lindy Marsden and Doug King, if it comes to that?"

"No, no, I admit it freely. I also plead guilty to the knowledge that the house is called Lady Court; that it's 40 miles from Washington over as bad roads as you'd find south of the North Pole, that this is the first time that you've had a house party in it for ten years, and that for some inscrutable reason you call yourselves the March Hares. Outside of that you are working on virgin soil, I assure you."

"Good Lord, Hanna, didn't you even tell him that?"

Introductions.

"The four original March Hares called themselves that because they were mad and were born in March. I was the maddest," explained Joel modestly. "But Doug and Trudi and Jill weren't to be sneezed at. Jill's the little quiet one in the corner of the sofa that has her hat over her eyes so that you can't see how pretty she is. Hats off, Jill."

The girl in the corner took it off, smiling, and even in the darkening room you could see that she was very pretty indeed.

"Miss Jill Leighton, spinster," said Joel. "The guy sitting next to her——"

"Are all of your birthdays in March?" inquired Gavin Dart, skeptically.

"No, no. Only the first four. Each of the founders could elect two more Hares and all that we had to guarantee about them was that they were mad. Of course, Trudi cheated a little when she picked Hanna, but she was so ornamental that she didn't need to be useful."

"Twelve of you?" asked Hanna's husband. "And Mrs. Hardy and I are intruders, so that leaves eleven. Who was the twelfth?" At the silence that fell abruptly over the gay voices he said quicklyy, "I'm sorry—that was stupid of me. Marsden, of course."

"Oh, no!" said Chatty, swiftly and consolingly. "We hardly knew Fred Marsden—he'd only met Lindy a few weeks before they were married, and he sailed the week afterward and got killed in the Argonne. It was one of those war marriages, you know."

The girl in the corner of the sofa who had taken off her hat said in a low voice:

"The twelfth was my sister Sylvia. She died quite a long time ago—almost ten years."

Gavin Dart said very gently, "I'm so sorry. Please forgive my idiocy."

"There's nothing to forgive . . . That tall, red-headed one over there helping Sherry is Christopher Baird, better known as Kit. Take a bow, Kit!"

Kit took one, smiling swiftly over his shoulder.

"The one in the big chair that looks as though he were going to sleep is Chatty's husband, Tom Ross," continued Jill, serenely, her hands locked so tight that no one could see the nervous tremor in them. "And the one nearest you in the tweed coat is Larry Redmond. That's all of us, Mr. Dart—no, Gavin's better, isn't it? And, Tom, if you're the candlemaker, I do think that you'd better wake up and tend to the lights. It really is getting blacker than Egypt."

"Want candle light or the chandeliers?" inquired Tom, bestirring himself from the sofa.

"Candle light—no, that takes too long. Here are the others; let's ask them. Lindy, which is it we want, romance or brilliance?"

"Brilliance," said Lindy from the doorway. "All those candles take much too long; we'll save them for dinner. Children, there's not even a twig; as soon as Sherry gives you stirrup cups you'll have to do something about it."

"Gangway!" came Doug King's uproarious boom. "Here comes the ice, lads and lasses. Buckets of it—Doug with a big one and Trudi with a little one——"

"Ow!" Trudi's voice was raised in lamentations. "Drat you, Doug King, there goes half of mine and I nearly broke my neck over that stool, too. Why don't you look where I'm going? . . . What do you people think you're doing in here—playing train in a tunnel?"

"Steady on," Tom's pleasant voice came from just behind her. "I forgot where the switch was, for a minute. There—how about it?"

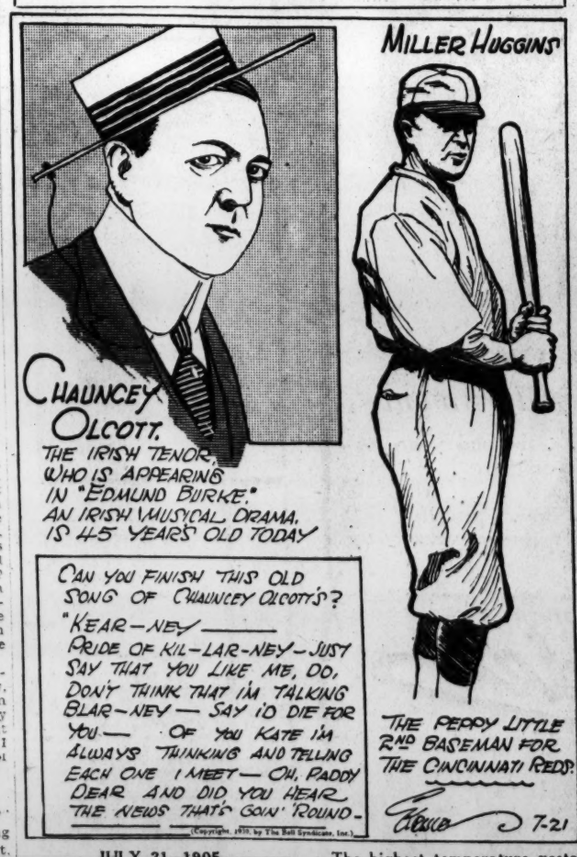

Abruptly the room was flooded with light—the two great chandeliers like frozen fountains, glittered and sparkled with it—and the room sparkled and glittered back.

In the pure flood of crystal light one could see quite clearly, and, really, all present were well worth looking at.

Indoor and Outdoor Gardens

By JANE LESLIE KIFT

IRIS AND OTHER GARDEN FAVORITES.

BEGIN dividing your bearded iris this month, and be sure to enrich the soil before replanting. It is really safe to begin this work any time after they have finished blooming, but you may put it off until the middle of September. Plant them on slight ridges to insure perfect drainage next winter. This variety of iris will stand a great deal of neglect, but when we stop to consider their decorative possibilities, we must agree that they are worthy of the best care.

Whenever you are transplating iris, keep your eyes open for root rot. When there is even a suggestion of this malady, take a sharp knife and remove the decayed portion, then wash the root with corrosive sublimate solution and dust it with powdered sulphur. Badly infested roots must be planted in a new place. If you detect signs of borers, dig them out and kill them.

So many letters are coming daily to my desk, each asking how hollyhock leaves may be rid of brown specks. These specks which you describe are a form of rust, which can be controlled if you will spray the soil about the roots, before the plants start to grow, with bordeaux mixture.

After the plants have begun to grow they must be sprayed each week until they have made considerable growth. Rust is carried over in the soil, and the important time to control it is in the spring just before growth starts. This will kill the spores before they infect the plants.

Be sure to divide your delphiniums after they have attained their best growth, which is the third year. Do the work the following season early in the spring, when growth first starts. Some growers advocate doing this work in the fall; but, as a rule, the plants do better when divided in the spring. Should your delphiniums be affected by mildew, be careful never to syringe the plants at night, and be sure to dust them with sulphur at the first suggestion of the trouble. Some varieties are more suspectible to rust than others, so when purchasing new plants ask your dealer about this.

Should your chrysanthemums become covered with mildew, spray with bordeaux mixture or dust with powdered sulphur. Should they be attacked by red spider, try spraying with a forceful stream from the garden hose. If this does not prove affective, dust the foliage with powdered sulphur. Remember that hardy chrysanthemums should be transplanted once a season.

Forecast: For the District of Columbia and Maryland—Generally fair and continued warm Monday; Tuesday partly cloudy, probably local thundershowers in afternoon; cooler by Tuesday night; gentle shifting winds, becoming moderate southwest by Tuesday.

For Virginia—Generally fair and continued warm Monday and Tuesday, except probably local thundershowers Tuesday afternoon in North and west portions; moderate winds, mostly southwest.

The disturbance that was central over New Brunswick Saturday night is now over Newfoundland. Fort aux Basques, 29.22 inches, with a trough extending southwestward to Virginia, and the western disturbance has moved eastward to Minnesota and Wisconsin, Madison, 29.66 inches, with a trough extending southwestward to southern Arizona, Yuma, 29.64 inches. These disturbances have caused showers in portions of northern New England, the Lake Superior region, the northern Plains States, and in the southern Rocky Mountain region. The weather has remained fair over practically all other sections during the last 24 hours. Pressure remains relatively high off the north Pacific Coast, North Head, Wash., 30.26 inches, and from the South Atlantic States eastward over the ocean, Titusville, Fla., 30.14 inches. There has been some relief from the heat in New England, New York, the northern Plains States, Wyoming and Colorado, but the weather continues abnormally warm over practically all other sections east of the Rocky Mountains, except the extreme South. The highest temperature reported east of the Rocky Mountains was 106.6 degrees at Washington, D. C., this breaking the previous Washington high temperature record of 106.5 degrees made on August 6, 1918. Many other stations from Nebraska and Kansas eastward to the Middle Atlantic States report maxima of 100 degrees or slightly higher.

The indications are for generally fair weather in the Washington forecast district Monday, and for local thundershowers Monday night or Tuesday in the lower lake region, the Ohio Valley, the Middle Atlantic and North Atlantic States, and possibly Tennessee. The temperature will continue high until Tuesday in the Ohio Valley and the lower lake region, and in Tennessee and the Middle Atlantic and North Atlantic States until about Tuesday night.

Along the north Atlantic Coast the winds will be gentle variable and weather fair Monday. Along the middle Atlantic Coast the winds will be gentle to moderate shifting over north portion and moderate southwest over south portion, and weather fair Monday. Along the south Atlantic Coast the winds will be moderate south or southwest, except gentle to moderate easterly over extreme south portion, and the weather generall fair Monday. Over the Gulf of Mexico the winds will be gentle to moderate east or southeast and weather partly overcast Monday, probably local showers over south portion. Over the Caribbean Sea (west of longitude 73 degrees) and Windward Passage the winds will be gentle to moderate northeast or east and weather partly overcast with local showers Monday.

It's Your A&P Store
As the town you live in is yours

Housewives, visiting a young merchant's store in 1859, found goods on his shelves they liked—and—as housewives do—told others.

Thus, A & P's business grew from this single store. First one customer brought another. Then one neighborhood brought another.

A & P has not forgotten why it outgrew a single store. It knows it must make good in each community if its stores are to be accepted by many.

Because A & P realizes this, the A & P store nearest you is run by your townsmen. Men in your own locality keep your store in touch with the A & P system. The food on its shelves is there because you have asked for it.

A & P is made up of many such stores, just as the United States is made up of many communities like your own. Your A & P store serves you better because it is part of a large system, just as your community suits you better because it is part of a great nation.

COMMODITY PRICE CHANGE LESS SEVERE THAN IN 1920-1921

Slump Held But One-Third As Rapid as Ten Years Ago

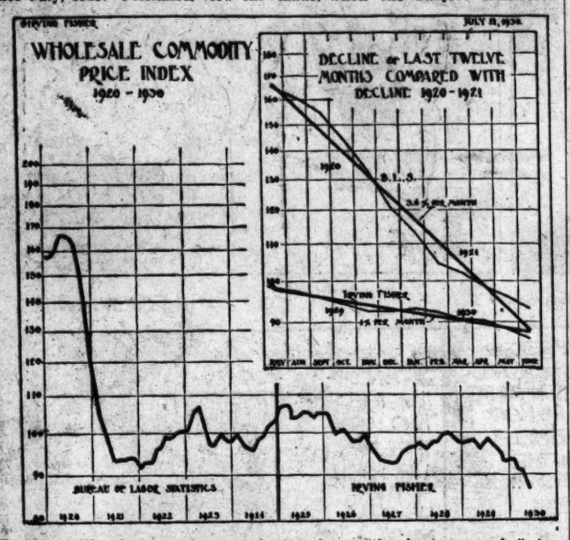

Level Shift Regarded as Significant in Comparison With Other Business Depressions; Violent Fluctuation Either Way Called Harmful Factor.

By IRVING FISHER
(Professor of Economics, Yale University).

Special to The Washington Post.

New Haven, Conn., July 20.—A certain confusion of mind appears in recent comment on the fall of the commodity price level during the past year. It is stated that we are "headed for a restoration of prewar price levels" and that this should end the inflation of prices produced by the war. It is not sufficiently understood that the position of the price level is not, of itself, significant as affecting the so-called business cycle. What is significant is the rate of change in the price level, either up or down. When this rate is rapid and violent, either up or down, people are sure to suffer.

That the fall in commodity prices during the past year was the most powerful factor in the present business depression is, however, widely recognized. It has amounted to slightly more than 1 per cent a month since July, 1929. Pessimists view the situation with alarm, and comparisons have been freely made with the business depression of 1920-21.

But the chart herewith shows that for the year from July, 1920, to June, 1921, the downward rate of change in the commodity price level was three times swifter than during the corresponding months of 1929-1930. Yet with the stabilizing of the price level at the bottom of that fall, where it remained, business picked up in 1922, and 1923 recorded the most prosperous year known in this country to that date.

Held Steady Level.

This prosperity was maintained without the unhealthy stimulation of a rising commodity price level during the following seven years, although stock prices rose rapidly and far. In July, 1929, monetary appreciation again began to cause recessions in commodity prices and trade.

For society as a whole, and in the long run, both the appreciation and depreciation of dollar purchasing power are, of course, evils. The stimulation to business from rising prices, for instance, does not mean a benefit to all classes. It means an abnormal gain to the profit-taker, or "profiteer," at the expense of his creditors and employes; and in the end even the profit-taker is usually injured.

The reason for this is simple. When manufacturers get higher prices for their finished products they do not at first have to pay correspondingly higher wages and salaries, neither do rent and interest rise at once. This lagging behind of interest, rent, salaries, wages—not to mention raw materials, which usually lag for a somewhat different reason—is inevitable because the laggards are fixed by contracts or understandings.

When One Side Lags.

Evidently the lagging of these important elements of expense practically involves a lagging of total expenses behind total receipts. Consequently money profits, the excess of receipts over expenses, tend to be increased. Reversely, falling prices hurt profits, as the record of the past year bears witness.

Since the profit-taker is the captain of industry, on whose decision depends the rate of output, it is further inevitable that when profits increase, industry is expanded and business booms; while, when profits decrease, industry is contracted and business is depressed. This phenomenon was observed as to the long period of deflation after the Civil War, culminating in 1896; and again as to the long period of inflation beginning in 1896 and culminating, in England and the United States, in 1920; and again as to the rapid inflation in postwar Germany; and again as to the drastic deflation of 1920-21 in the United States and the lesser depressions of the wholesale price level since then.

Massed Rate of Change.

But strangely enough, until recently such observations have not been made, when the subject considered has been "the business cycle," implying an alteration of booms and depressions. The chief reason why the role of inflation and deflation used to be missed so completely by the forecasters was that they missed the clear distinction between high prices and rising prices, and, likewise, between low prices and falling prices. In short, they scrutinized the price level, but not its rate of change. Finding no similarity in the curves representing the price level and business, they did not see how the changes in the prices level could explain the variations in the volume of business. Had they instead compared the curve rate of change in the price level and the curve showing the volume of trade they would have found a marked similarity.

Studies of such correspondences in the past warrant the belief that the current depression in business is of a minor character; business has been depressed by a fluctuation in the commodity price level less intense and less than a third as rapid as during the 1920-21 depression. In this respect it compares more nearly with the milder recessions of 1924 and 1927.

Gresham's Law Origin Is Traced to England

One of the first difficulties in the early history of money was that of keeping two or more metals in circulation at the same time. The monetary unit in one of the two would become cheaper than in the other, and the dearer would be preferred to the cheaper, and thus would be withheld from circulation.

To this tendency has been given the name of "Gresham's Law," in honor of Sir Thomas Gresham, a financial adviser of Queen Elizabeth of England.

STOCK PRICES RISE, IN SPITE OF APATHY

Market Hopeful, Although Midsummer Dullness Hits Commodities.

INDEX REVEALS TREND

By H. B. BROUGHAM
(Irving Fisher Service).

As midsummer dullness and general business apathy sends commodity prices down, hope rises again in the stock market. The leading business forecasters predict better conditions in early fall. Professional stock operators, joined increasingly by the public, are discounting the end of a year's depression as reflected in a rising level of stock prices.

The index of common industrial stocks on the New York Stock Exchange rose by 5 per cent last week, closing the week at 136.6, an increase of 10.6 per cent from the recent low of 123.5 on June 24. Since July 7, when prices suffered a conspicuous drop from the close before the two-day holiday, prices have been advancing at a daily rate of 0.86 per cent with but one day when prices sagged below the previous day's close.

At last week's close the index of common industrials was at the high since June 14, having recovered in two weeks the losses of the preceding three weeks.

Prices Are Analyzed.

Of the 320 stocks in the Fisher selection 65 per cent closed last week up in price from the previous week's closing price, 9 per cent off and 26 per cent were steady.

The auto accessories, radio and theater, office equipment, household supply building equipment, chemical and motors groups rose by more than 6 per cent last week.

The outside public began last week to come into the stock market. Average daily value of trading on the New York Stock Exchange rose by 47 per cent in common industrial stocks to $102,800,000, and by 39 per cent in all stocks to $133,900,000.

These gains come after record dullness. Last week's average for common industrial stocks showed a 51 per cent gain over the low of $68,100,000 for the week ended July 5, and, in all stocks, a gain of 43 per cent over the low of $96,100,000 for the same week. The rails, chemicals and electrical equipment groups dropped in values traded by less than $1,000,000.

Of the seventeen groups that rose in trading last week, radios and theaters, oils, coppers, utilities, miscellaneous, foods, machinery and railroad equipment, and motors rose by more than $1,000,000 each.

Paris Stocks Drop.

Stock prices of foreign bourses continue to hold steady, with the largest change last week in Paris as profit taking, following a 9 per cent rise from June 20 to July 11, caused prices to drop by 2.5 per cent. The index last week at 119.0 was 6.3 per cent above the 1930 low on June 20 showing an average weekly gain of 1.6 per cent for four weeks compared with 3.0 per cent for three weeks ending July 11.

Prices in Berlin have shown a downward trend since June 20, despite the gain of 1.5 per cent last week. At 82.0 this index shows a total loss of 1.4 per cent when compared with the index for the week of June 20 or an average decline of 0.4 per cent per week.

The London exchange continues to show weakness. Last week's decrease of 0.38 per cent brought the index to

MONEY FLUCTUATES; BUSINESS HESITATES

"Tomorrow" Seems to Be Watchword Because of Situation.

EUROPE SEES PROGRESS

"Manana"—the Spanish "tomorrow"—seems to be the watchword of business. With everybody standing on the sidelines, afraid to make future trades because of the fluctuating dollar, the wholesale commodity price level took another tumble last week to an index mark of 83.4 (1926 equals 100). The sharp drop was of 1.30 per cent. Added to the decline of 1.29 per cent the preceding week, the rate of fall is now faster than it was from April 11 to June 27, when it appeared as if the fall was easing off. Meanwhile, the foreign commodity situation has enjoyed a betterment. This tendency has not been reflected in the United States.

From the week ended April 11 to date the commodity price index has fallen from 91.3 to 83.4, a total loss of 8.7 per cent, or at an average rate of 0.62 per cent each week for a period of fourteen weeks. The rate of change has increased from an average rate maintained from April 11 to July 4 of 0.52 per cent each week to 1.28 per cent during the last two weeks.

The purchasing power of the dollar, which is the reciprocal of the commodity price level, rose last week to 119.8, a point nearly 20 cents higher than the 1926 dollar.

Have you ever thought
HOW CHEAP ELECTRICITY REALLY IS
and how hard it would be to get along without it?
THE average American family uses 10c worth of electricity a day. For the average family,
10c buys the food for only . . . 1 hour
10c pays the rent for only . . 1½ hours
10c buys the clothing for only 2 hours
10c runs the automobile for only 2 miles but
10c buys the electricity for 24 hours
Use electricity freely. It saves your eyes, your health, your strength, your time . . . And it costs so little.
Associated residential customers use 11.5% more than last year.
Residential customers of the Associated System are more and more realizing the economy, comfort and convenience of using electricity freely. They now use 11.5% more than a year ago—for lighting, for cooking, for toasting, for ironing, for cooling, for cleaning, for numberless tasks.
On the Associated low energy rate, electricity for the numerous uses and appliances is really very cheap, and customers are encouraged to use it freely.

FALL IN COMMODITY GROUP IS RECORDED

Price-Index Changes in One Week Are Considered as Disturbing.

CHEMICALS ARE NOT HIT

When the commodity price index changed in one week by more than half a per cent during 1929, it was a subject for extraordinary comment. With the long, serious decline of this year, however, such changes have become common. Even so the fall of the past two weeks must be considered grave, when it is considered that last week every group index, except that for chemicals, was off.

The situation has found changes in groups ranging as low as a 5 per cent loss for the miscellaneous block last week, with oils very weak; a 2.3 per cent fall for farm products, with apples, grains and provisions badly off; a 1.3 per cent loss in the foods group, with flour, sugar and hams down, and a 1.3 per cent drop in the hides and leathers group.

The rate of decline in raw materials was less last week, being 1.9 per cent, compared with the preceding week, 2.8 per cent. The rate of change in semimanufactured goods was steady at 0.37 per cent, while finished goods were declining at an increased rate.

Of the group indexes, farm products, foodstuffs, metals and building materials showed increased rates of change last week, while hides and leathers, textiles, fuels and chemicals presented a slightly more favorable outlook.

Commodity Situation Abroad Satisfactory

Wholesale commodity prices in France and Germany continue to indicate better conditions abroad. The index for France was up by 0.5 per cent last week to 80.5, showing a total gain over the recent low of 1 per cent or an average weekly movement of plus 0.25 per cent. The level in Germany at 93.6 rose by 0.65 per cent last week, and shows a total gain of 1.74 per cent over the recent low, or an average weekly increase of 0.44 per cent.

Conditions in England and Italy are less favorable, with both commodity indexes off to new lows last week, dropping by 0.77 and 0.48 per cent, respectively. From the previous low of 77.8 on June 27, the index for England made temporary gains, which last week's drop counteracted. This index shows an average weekly decline for four weeks of 0.22 per cent.

U. S. Monetary System Has Outstanding Defeat

Lack of redeemability of silver dollars in the United States is one of the chief defects of our monetary system. Our paper silver certificates are redeemable in silver dollars, but these silver dollars are not, theoretically, redeemable in gold.

Actually, the silver certificates and silver dollars keep at par with gold merely because they are not in sufficient quantity to displace gold.

another low at 78.2. For the past four weeks London stock prices have been dropping at an average rate of 0.5 per cent per week, showing a total drop of but 1.9 per cent.

A speculative stock market ruled last week, with the speculative group rising by 7.6 per cent in price. Semiinvestment stocks were up by 5.1 per cent, while gilt-edged investment stocks rose only 4.6 per cent.

At last week's close speculative stocks had advanced from the 1930 low of 92.4 by 12.8 per cent of which 9.9 per cent was recorded in the last two weeks. The semiinvestment and investment groups have gained since July 7 by 8.5 per cent each, with total increase over their recent lows of 10.2 and 10.7 per cent, respectively.

White Sox Win Two From Boston, 16-4, 5-4

Chicago, July 20 (A.P.).—The White Sox shoved Boston deeper into the American League cellar today, winning both games of a double-header. The Sox scored a run in their half of the ninth to gain a 5-to-4 victory in the second contest, after walloping out 21 hits to win the opener, 16 to 4.

Ted Lyons was rapped for twelve hits in the first game, but gained credit for his fourteenth victory of the season. Emile Barnes led the Chicago attack in the first game with two doubles and a pair of singles in five times at bat.

DeMorpurgo Defeats Texan in 5-Set Thrilling Fray.

Lott Is Winner Over De Stefani; Italy Beaten, 4-1.

By SMITH F. REAVIS (Associated Press Staff Writer).

AUTEUIL, France, July 20 (A.P.). Dividing the last two singles matches, America's youthful Davis Cup Tennis Team brushed aside Italy today, four matches to one, and gained the challenge round with France.

George Lott, of Chicago, gave America its fourth successive victory in the series when he defeated Georgio de Stefani, ambidextrous Italian, in straight sets, 6—3, 6—1, 6—3, but the final point of the tie went to Italy when Baron Humbert L. de Morpurgo, ace of the Italian team, defeated Wilmer Allison, of Fort Worth, Tex., 7—5, 6—2, 5—7, 6—4. Today's matches were in the nature of exhibitions, for the United States had clinched the series by winning the doubles yesterday.

The challenge round against France, holders of the cup for three years, will be played Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

Allison Match Feature.

Although the final singles matches played no part in the net result, they provided the fans with the toughest tennis they had seen since Allison took the court in the first match against de Stefani on Friday. Again only a handful of enthusiasts saw the matches, for rain threatened throughout the day.

Both Allison and de Morpurgo banged the ball bitterly in long drives from the baseline in the first set, Allison winning the first three games, but from then on to the end of the second set the Italian held the Texan in the palm of his hand. In the third set Allison began to go to the net when he volleyed again and again out of reach of his opponent's racquet. Even then the Italian led him, 5-4, and De Morpurgo reached match point twice, losing the second only after a disputed decision on a hot drive of Allison's to the baseline. It looked in to the referee and linesman, but to the crowd there were cat-calls and boos until the Italian motioned for a halt.

The incident seemed to lend strength to Allison's arm and he served unreachable aces and drove so hard that he ran out the next four games with comparative ease.

Both were tied when the final set began, Allison continually overdrove while De Morpurgo rested whenever possible on the baseline. De Morpurgo took the first four games then dropped two before Allison's attack at the net. With games at 5—4, Allison made his greatest bid of the day, with the game at match point twice he was able with a great stroke to pull it from the fire. He netted an easy one, however, to give advantage to the Italian and the latter on his own service took the final point.

Shamrock V Puts to Sea In Stormy Weather

Portsmouth, England, July 20 (A.P.)—Sir Thomas Lipton's Shamrock V, which was weatherbound overnight off Spithead, put to sea this morning convoyed by the stem yacht Erin.

The wind was not so boisterous as yesterday, but the weather continued rough and indications were the yacht would have a bad passage down the channel. Late weather reports indicated the Shamrock was facing head winds and heavy seas.

Capt. Ned Heard hoped to reach the Azores in seven days and complete the transatlantic journey to New York within one month.

On September 13 the Shamrock will compete in the international yacht races off Newport, R. I., when Sir Thomas will make his fifth attempt to recapture for England the America's Cup.

CARDS BEAT DODGERS 15 TO 6

Clark Is Victim of 7-Run Attack in Second.

BROOKLYN, N. Y., July 20 (A.P.). The St. Louis Cardinals pounded four Brooklyn pitchers hard to inflict a 15-to-6 beating on the slipping league Robins today. Their seventeen hits included home runs by Watkins and Frisch. Wright hit a home run for Brooklyn.

The Robins got off to a two-run lead in the first inning, but the Cardinals pounded Clark out of the box with a 7-run assault in the second frame, after which the St. Louisans were never headed.

Catcher Al Lopez, of Brooklyn, and Pitcher Flint Rhem, of St. Louis, were both put out of the game by Umpire McGrew early in the proceedings.

Macfarlane Takes Met Open, Beating Farrell

Elmsford, N. Y., July 20 (A.P.)—Willie Macfarlane, national open champion in 1925, won the Metropolitan open golf title today, defeating Johnny Farrell, of Mamaroneck, N. Y., in their 36-hole playoff. They had tied at 280 in the regular 72 holes of play yesterday.

Macfarlane won the title by two strokes, covering the 36 holes in 142 to 144 for Farrell. The two metropolitan district stars were all even at the end of the fisrt eighteen with 70's, but Macfarlane needed only 72 for the final eighteen to Farrell's 74.

Grant Wins Over Coen For Clay Courts Title

Rockhill Tennis Club, Kansas City, July 20 (A.P.)—Bryan Grant, jr., Atlanta, Ga., today won the National clay courts tennis singles hampionship, defeating W. F. (Junior) Coen, Kansas City, 6—2, 4—6, 6—2, 6—4.

Grant's victory was characterized by a continuation of the steady, methodical play which took him into finals competition.

Coen succeeded better than any of the Atlanta youth's tournament competitors in drawing the new champion out of position. The Kansas City player failed to take advantage of his maneuvers, however, repeatedly smashing into the net with a certain point almost within his grasp.

CUBS BEATEN BY GIANTS 13 TO 5

Early Lead, Homer by Wilson Futile as Giants Rally.

NEW YORK, July 20 (A.P.)—The Giants spotted the champion Cubs four runs in the first two innings today but walloped their way to a 13 to 5 victory. As the Cardinals clouted out a victory over Brooklyn, the Cubs gained a slight mathematical edge in the race.

Fred Leach led the Giants at bat with four hits, one of which was a home run. Hack Wilson found Fitzsimmons for his twenty-seventh homer of the year in the third inning. He was the first man at bat.

IN THE WAKE OF THE GAME

Special to The Washington Post.

SPORTSMAN'S PARK, St. Louis, Mo., July 20.—First baseman Lu Blue has been out of the St. Louis line-up ever since the series with the Browns in Washington three weeks ago, with Earl McNeely, former Nat, subbing for him. The Earl of Sacramento robbed Rice of a hit, with West on, in the first when he made a nice jumping stop of the outfielder's high bounder in the opening inning.

Cronin's shot past Hale, which scored West in the first round, was charged as an error for Hale. It went by the infielder so fast that he hardly had a chance to get it, and, in fairness to all concerned, should have been called a safety.

McNeely hit Crowder's first offering of the game for a three-bagger to deep center.

Goslin missed getting a homer by less than a yard in the first frame, with Hale on the sacks, and then Crowder slipped a third strike by him.

Ending the Nats' second, Spencer sent Schulte almost back to the stands in center for a hard-hit drive.

West broke some speed records in beating out his topped tap down the third-base line in the third.

Cronin did not have to move from his position to take Hale's liner opening the Brownie third.

The umpires saved themselves as much as possible by ducking for the shade near the stands every half-round.

Meyer showed plenty of ambition on his single opening round 4. When he saw the ball skid past Badgro, he tried to take two bases on the error but was nipped at third by a whisker. From the press box it looked as be on the verge of pounding him out in both the third and fourth rounds, yet they were trailing by two runs by the time the fourth session was completed.

In the first round, West's opening single, Rice's infield out, and Hale's error on Cronin's hot grasser gave them a one-run lead, but Crowder could not hold this.

In fact, the Browns got this one run back by the efforts of their first two batters, McNeely tripling and Hale singling. The latter went to second when West toyed with the ball but Crowder pulled out of this hole.

With one gone in the third, West beat out a topped roller down the third-base line and this was the start of a two-run rally, Shires later singling and Cronin doubling both home. This put the Nationals two to the good but they did not enjoy their prosperity long, for the Browns scored four times in their fourth almost having Crowder out of there. Ferrell opened with a single and took second on a passed ball. Schulte walked and then the cyclone struck in the form of clean singles off the bats of Melillo, Badgro and McNeely, with Hale's out also proving helpful to the Browns' cause.

Fourth Marks Beginning Of End.

The fourth frame marked the beginning of the end for the Nats. In their half no good had come of three singles and an error, due to the fact that Myer, on whose one-shot the miscue was made, was nipped trying to go all the way from first to third. Following this round Blaeholder tightened up, while Crowder was able to hold the natives in check only for two more frames, when they hopped on his slants for three more runs.

With one gone in this seventh session, Kress singled and, after Ferrell had lofted to West, Schulte singled, Melillo doubled and Badgro tripled, the latter being killed at the plate on a close play while trying to stretch his drive into a round-tripper.

The game was already tucked in the St. Louis bag when the Nats showed their last spark of fight in the ninth, this being in the form of Pinch-Hitter Judge's homer with one on and a later one by Shires, with the sacks empty. As the Johnsons were trailing by five runs entering this round, this abbreviated stand helped nothing but the averages of the two Washington first sackers.

Hadley, Stewart Choices For Mound Duty Today

Sportsman's Park, St. Louis, July 20.—St. Louis may not be leading the American League, but it certainly is entitled to first place in the hot weather circuit, as the Nationals discovered when they pulled in here early this morning. While at Cleveland, a high record for July was hung up. But that was only the Forest City and the Nats are willing to concede the Browns a world's mark here.

In the Johnson locker room before the game the thermometer showed a snappy 104, whereupon orders were

STAUBLY BOWS TO LATONA IN NET TOURNEY UPSET

Third Seeded Star Loses In 3 Sets

Other Favorites Advance; Considine to 5th Round.

Heat Causes Two to Default in Public Parks Tennis.

ALAN STAUBLY, George Washington University player, seeded No. 4, suffered a surprise defeat at the hands of Anthony Latona, youthful former Western High School star, in the third round of singles yesterday in the public parks championship tournament. The scores were 9—7, 4—6, 7—5.

Staubly, faced with a terrific battle from the outset, met with misfortune in the third set and broke his racquet. This occurred when the set was deadlocked, 5—5, after he had pulled up from 1—5. It was then a comparatively easy matter for Latona to take the next two games to win the match. Staubly was unable to do his best with a substitute racquet.

Throughout the match Latona kept chopping the ball much to Staubly's disgust. The George Washington ace likes a hard-driving game, and he continually netted the ball on returns. Latona scored few points except through his opponent's errors.

Bob Considine Wins Easily.

The other seeded stars came through unscathed. Bob Considine, District champion and the defending champion in this tourney, advanced to the fifth round by virtue of two victories. He defeated his brother, George, 6—0, 6—4, in the third round and eliminated Dan Daly in the fourth round, 6—1, 6—0.

Daly had moved forward through the default of Randy Robinson in the third round. He held an advantage of 6—2, 5—5 when Robinson became ill due to the heat and left the court. Another heat victim, George E. Robin, defaulted to William C. Bradley in a second round match after having divided the first two sets.

Dooly Mitchell, seeded No. 2, stepped along by defeating Harry Goldsmith, 6—1, 6—3, and Edgar Yeomans, promising University of North Carolina netman, kept pace with the leaders by conquering Maurice Goubeau, former Western High player, now a student at the University of Maryland, 6—3, 9—7. The second set was a torrid affair with Yeoman's greater experience proving the decisive factor.

Bud Markey, former Notre Dame tennis mainstay, who is playing for the first time in the local municipal championships, defeated Pat Deck, 6—1, 7—5, to reach the fourth round.

Army Double Pair Wins.

Lieut. S. K. Robinson and Lieut. David H. Hedekin, of the Army Leech Cup Team, made their debut in local parks tennis by winning over F. M. Silva and C. M. Pierson, respectively, in first round matches. Robinson later advanced to the fourth round, defeating Madison P. Coe and Maurice Hoffman, but Hedekin fell in the second round before the smoother stroking of Frank Shore, District junior champion, 4—6, 6—3, 7—5.

In the women's division, Mrs. Ruth Martinez, the favorite, defeated Goldie Crist in her first match, 6—1, 6—1, and followed in the second round by conquering Louise Omwake. Dorothy Kingsbury, another highly rated player, reached the fourth round by beating Mrs. Emma Shaw, 6—1, 6—1, and Peggy Keyser, 6—1, 6—3.

NATS SUFFER FROM HEAT IN WEST

Hadley and Stewart Rival Pitchers for Today.

issued that the pregame batting and fielding drills be curtailed so that the players still would be able to do a little work when play started. Although a slight breeze was blowing, its benefits were similar to those of the zephyrs from a draft furnace.

Registers 114 at Hot Corner.

Shortly after play started, Third Baseman Ossie Bluege had ambition enough to start an argument on the Nat bench as to how hot it was at the "hot corner," in particular; whereupon Mascot Karl Corby chased back for the thermometer, which was tossed near the coach's box back of third. It registered 114 and was still going strongly when the game ended.

Games are not called on account of heat in the American League, but were President E. S. Barnard present today he no doubt would have been willing to put a provision of this kind in the rule book. Showing that there is no accounting for taste, however, about 1,200 fans turned out, but they probably didn't have any other place to go. Four games are scheduled in this series with the Browns, with Irving Hadley and Walter Stewart scheduled to do the flinging tomorrow. The latter always has been effective against the Johnsons, although they rung up their only victory of their last trip here at this little southpaw's expense.

Brown Has Tooth Yanked.

In addition to the heat in Cleveland, a dentist also helped slow up Pitcher Lloyd Brown, for he pulled up with an infected tooth yesterday afternoon, and had it yanked last night before boarding the train headed for here. Brownie will be ready to go when needed, however, although he complained of a mighty sore mouth this morning.

Outfielder Sammy Rice is limping around like a hen on a hot griddle, due to an ingrowing toe nail. After one of Trainer Mike Martin's scientific treatments he was able to start in this afternoon's game only slightly handicapped.

The Johnson family had a reunion here this morning, the Nat manager's son, Eddie, and three brothers motoring over from Coffeeville, Kans., to welcome Walter.

Coaches Nick Altrock and Al Schacht were conspicuous for their absence at today's game. These funny fellows left last night from Cleveland for Davenport, Iowa, where they are doing their stuff today at a big benefit game. They will be back on the job here tomorrow.

Heinie Manush gave his injured leg a good workout before today's game and was greatly pleased at the progress made. If there are no setbacks he likely will be able to get back in the line up in the opening game at Chicago against the White Sox Thursday and there is a remote possibility that he will try to play before the current set ends.

Sylvester and Jamison Win; Other News of District Links

By HENRY LITCHFIELD WEST.

An interesting four-ball golf match was played on the course of the Bannockburn Club yesterday afternoon, with Frank Hartig and R. Cliff McKimmie, professional and assistant professional of the Army, Navy and Marine Corps Club, paired against Tony Sylvester and Arthur Jamison, professional and assistant professional of the Bannockburn Club. The match resulted in a victory for the home team, 2 and 1, an outcome which was all the more enjoyable because Hartig and McKimmie recently defeated J. Monro Hunter and George Diffenbaugh, the professionals of the Indian Spring Club.

When Jamison won the first hole with a birdie 3 and when he narrowly missed an eagle 3 on the second, tapping his ball into the cup for a birdie 4, and when Jamison and Sylvester had won the first four holes, the latter had no trouble in reaching the turn 2 up. The crucial point of the match, however, was the long sixteenth, when McKimmie was on the edge of the green with a long drive and an almost equally long brassie, so that he had no trouble in securing a birdie 4. Sylvester, 50 yards from the green on his second, pitched within 1 2feet of the pin and ran down his putt for a half, and when the seventeenth was halved the match was over. Sylvester and McKimmie each had medal scores of 74, with Jamison and Hartig tying with 76.

"No Alibi" Play Proves Popular.

The "no alibi" contest at the Washington Golf and Country club, when each contestant was allowed to repeat four strokes in the round of eighteen holes, so as to eliminate all possible excuses for missed shots, was participated in by a large field. In Class A the winners were E. P. Brooke, 72—6—66; D. C. Gruver, 74—6—68; C. R. Cherry, 79—11—68, E. F. McIntire, 85—15—70. In Class B the winners were Wm. Graham, 88—18—70; N. B. Williams, 88—16—72; C. H. German, 90—17—73, and V. P. Simmons, 92—18—74.

The Scotch foursome at the Manor club yesterday was won by C. G. Storm and S. M. Grogan, with a card of 88—16—72.

A team of Washington women golfers returned last week from a trip to the Princess Anne course, Norfolk, Va., where they defeated a team of Norfolk women players with a score of 8 points as against 4 for the home team. Mrs. J. M. Haynes led the Washington golfers, scoring three points, but Mrs. J. F. Gross, Mrs. Perry B. Hoover and Mrs. J. W. Harvey, jr., all had wins to thier credit.

Tie Results in Play At Bannockburn.

The blind bogey at the Bannockburn Club yesterday, with 67 as the lucky number, resulted in a tie between A. M. Lake, 94—27—67, and E. P. King, with the identical score of 94—27—67. There was a triple tie for second between Miss I. M. Havey, 98—30—68; E. J. Doyle, 84—16—68, and Leo F. Pass, 78—10—68.

The mixed Scotch foursome at the Woodmont Club a week ago yesterday resulted in a quadruple tie. This tie was played off yesterday and resulted in a victory for Miss Bertha Israel and Simon Nye, with a card of 97—27—70. The other contestants finished as follows: Mrs. T. D. Peyser and Max Weyl, 92—14—78; Mrs. Jerome Meyer and Marx Kaufman, 103—16—87, and Mrs. John Schulman and William G. Illch, 103—14—89.

The Beaver Dam Club, which naturally feels elated over the achievements of its women members, will give a dinner at the clubhouse tomorrow night, the especial guest of honor being Mrs. Betty Meckley, the District woman golf champion. Mrs. Alma von Steinner and Mrs. Burton Shipley are also included in the list to whom special honor will be paid. A large attendance is already assured and the officials of the club expect to make the occasion one of the outstanding events in the history of Beaver Dam.

WEST UPSET BY KING'S PALACE

Busher Gives Midget Leaders Only 3 Hits; Senators Win.

A WINNING streak of eight straight, made by the Sam Wests, leaders in the Midget section of the Capital City League, was snapped yesterday, when they confronted a brick wall in the pitching of Everett Buscher, Western High School athlete, who stopped them cold with three hits, allowing his team, the King's Palace, to register a 4-1 victory.

Buscher not only held the league leaders powerless at the bat, but fanned sixteen opposing batters. He was in trouble but once, the seventh, when the Wests scored their only run.

Cockrell Starts Off Well.

The Wests' pitcher, Cockrell, held the King's Palace scoreless until the fifth, but a home run off the bat of Winters unnerved him and before the inning was over, two more runs had been made.

Given a seven-run lead in the first two innings, "Stump" Talburt, of the Senators, pitched his team to a 9-4 triumph over the Lionels in the only other game played. Talburt allowed but four hits, and was the recipient of a nice lead given by the stickwork of his mates. Osias was the main offensive threat, banging out a home run and two doubles, while Sisler connected twice in as many times at bat.

Hurchman's forfeited to the Georgetown Nine.

Lamar, Gallagher Again Clash in Baltimore Bout

HENRY LAMAR and Marty Gallaher, Washington's heavyweight boxing rivals, will be at it again tonight in the ten-round feature of the Olympia Club's fight show in Carlin's Park, Baltimore. This is their third meeting.

More than a month ago, Henry was awarded the decision over Marty in the same Oriole City ring. Four years ago they fought to a draw in eight rounds at Silver Spring. So Gallaher tonight doubtless will be out for Henry's blood, or neck, or something equally significant of beating the former Western High School star. Of course, Lamar will not be there to give the ex-Foggy Bottom plumber's helper any satisfaction.

This bout will start at 9 o'clock Eastern daylight time. In the preliminaries Jimmy Tramberia will clash with Frankie Marsanek, six rounds; Al Martin will tackle Joe Bruno, six rounds, and Walter Fredericks will oppose Jerry Bryan, also six rounds. Hundreds of Washington fans are expected to attend.

Triangular Meet Today At Barnard Playground

Athletes from three playgrounds will vie for honors today at the Barnard Playground, Fourth and Decatur streets northwest. Barnard will be host to Brightwood and Raymond. Barnard, which had a track team under the coaching of Arthur Marks for the first time last year, made a creditable showing and will enter today's meet the favorite.

This competition is in preparation for the city championship meet to be held on the Plaza Playground next month.

French A. C. Bows, 1-0, In Richmond Thriller

Special to The Washington Post.

Richmond, Va., July 20—French A. C. nine of Washington dropped a thrilling eleven inning struggle to Everett Waddey Co. team at the stadium this afternoon before 5,000 spectators by a 1 to 0 score in the greatest pitching duel seen here in years.

It was a heartbreaker for Lefty Loyn to lose. His stout pitching in the pinches had stood off the home club for ten innings, during which time his own mates were helpless against the southpaw slants of Ray Kennedy. An easy double play was spoiled in the eleventh frame when Hall dropped a toss from shortstop Freed. Tignor's grounder to Hall provided the setting for a double play and a chance for Lyon to rescue himself from his dilemma, but the ball took a sudden hop away from Hall, scoring Wood with the only run of the game.

Magee, of French A. C., made a great catch against the right field wall with two men on bases and received an ovation.

Reds and Braves Split Even in Double-Header

Boston, July 20 (A.P.).—Cincinnati and the Braves split a double-header here today, and so remained in a tie for sixth place. After the Reds took the first game, 8 to 5, the Braves landed on three Cincinnati pitchers for nineteen hits and a 13-to-1 victory in the second.

Home runs by Meusel, Heilmann and Gooch contributed to Cincinnati's triumph in the first game, when Little Rabbit Maranville also made his first homer of the season, a drive into right field pavilion.

Wally Berger hit his twenty-sixth homer of the season in the second game and had a perfect game at bat with a single and two triples to his credit as well.

IN THE WAKE OF THE GAME

though he was safe, but "Umps" Connolly saw the play differently, and his opinion was the official one. It cost the Nats a run, for both Spencer and Crowder later singled.

Spencer was charged with a passed ball in the fourth, this being the first plastered on the record of a Washington receiver this season.

Cronin raced over to the first-base side of the second to grab Hales roller and make the out at first in the home fourth. It was a great play and helped Crowder hold the St. Louis advance to four runs.

Blaeholder did not issue a pass until he franked Harris to first with two gone in the fifth.

Shires made a nice stop of Cronin's low peg to retire Kress opening the Browns fifth. Crowder threw but four balls as the natives went down in rapid order in this stanza.

Schulte came in almost back of second to make a nice catch of West's near Texas leaguer ending the Nats' sixth with Bluege scoring at the time.

Bluege made one of the prettiest plays of the game in the home sixth when he gobbled up Badgro's hot roller with his gloved hand and followed through with a rifle-like throw to first.

Shires raced over close to the stands back of first to make a nice catch of Goslin's pop foul in the seventh.

When Schulte singled in the seventh, he made the St. Louis attack unanimous, giving each member of the Killefer cast credit for at least one safety.

Cronin went back almost to the grass to make a nice stop and throw of Hale's grasser ending the eighth.

REDS PLAYING GOOD BALL.

The Cincinnati Reds, who have been playing like champions for the past two weeks, are but ten games out of first place, although in seventh. In the American League, ten games separate the first and fourth place teams.

Boots and Saddle's

(Reg. U. S. Patent Office.)

—Arlington Park Selections—

By J. B. SNODGRASS.

THE Arlington Park feature today is the $2,000 added Lakeville Purse. HOT TODDY, owned by Mrs. Katheryn E. Hitt, Eastern sportswoman, looks like the winner. In his last race, HOT TODDY was second to Pigeon Hole, which lowered the track record for a mile. Since that race, Lady Broadcast has set another record for a mile on that track, bringing it down to 1:35 3-5. On that race HOT TODDY should prove the winner over JOCK, which seems to have had too much racing, but the son of Colin should hold the place safe from the others. UNCOMMON GOLD probably will coin third position money.

FIRST RACE—AUSTERLITZ, from the Glen Riddle Farm, should score in the opennig race for 2-year-olds. This filly was second to Sister Mary last time out. The Glen Riddle horses at Chicago are in charge of Trainer W. R. Midgeley. ENTICE, a Rancocas filly, second in her last start, should be the contender. ROSEVOLT has an outside chance, and should be third.

SECOND RACE — FRENCH LASS should repeat. She will have HOT SHOT as the most dangerous rival. FRENCH LASS beat Pious and Jimmy Moran in her last race, while HOT SHOT was beaten a length in a race run in 1:11 1-5. The running time of FRENCH LASS at the same distance was 1:11 2-5. This may be a close race. GRACIOUS GIFT is rated third.

THIRD RACE—UPRIGHT is selected to beat SISTER MARY in this race for 2-year-olds. Both are consistent winners, and there is little advantage in speed for either. WEE DROP, double winner in the East, may drive close.

FIFTH RACE—JEANNE WACHS is in her own class. She should return to winning form in this race. She was over her head last out, won by Flaming. FLYER should be the contender. JIMMY MORAN or STOP GAP will take third. FLYER also has been outclassed recently, but will do better here. He beat Outer Harbor at Washington Park.

SIXTH RACE—There is no reason why SEARINGTON should not repeat. He beat Brother Rank and others last out, running the mile in 1:37 3-5, and this is the same distance. SUITOR looks like the contender, and was third to as good a horse as Uncommon Gold. PLUMBAGO has a chance.

SEVENTH RACE — PRETTY POSE and QUIBBLER meet again. Last week the filly beat the horse a nose and should do so again. FINLAND may get in the money.

Skinker Nine Beaten in Thriller

Burroughs Nine Puts Up Hard Struggle Against Leaders.

Woodmen Routed, 18-5; Foxall Gets Forfeit Game.

DEFENDING their lead in the unlimited section of the Capital City League for the first time yesterday, the Columbia Heights Baseball Team performed like league leaders to maintain their slender lead by a 13-to-7 victory over the Burroughs Nine. Refusing to be shaken from their fight for the title, however, the second-place St. Joe's Team scored a thrilling victory in the ninth inning of their game with the Skinker Eagles, to take a nip-and-tuck battle, 6 to 5.

The Anacostia Eagles likewise remained close behind by trouncing the Woodmen of the World, 18 to 5, while the Foxall benefited by a forfeit from the Mohawks.

Featuring the Columbia Heights victory were four double plays made by the leaders' infield, each time cutting off threatening rallies of the Burroughs Nine. Lester Singman, erstwhile Business High School star, came through with a sparkling game, both at bat and in the field, making an unassitsed double play and leading the offensive drive with a single, double and home run.

Heights Scores Six Runs Early.

Scoring six runs in the second inning, it appeared as if the Heights Nine would coast into an easy victory, but Hymie Newman, pitching well for the first four innings, suddenly became wild and ineffective in the fifth. After he had walked five batters, granted a hit, and allowed four runs in that frame, he was removed in favor of Dusty Rhodes, who stopped the rally.

It was due to Huck Hilleary that the second-place St. Joes maintained their position in the race. With the score tied and two out in the ninth inning, Hilleary walked, and stole second, third, and home, sliding across the plate with the run that brought victory to his nine.

After the Eagles had tied the score in the sixth inning, Jack Farrington went in to pitch for St. Joe, proving the salvation of the ultimate winners by mowing down the enemy in order for the last three frames. Farrington not only pitched three hitless innings, but did not permit a ball to be driven out of the infield.

Anacostia Eagles Win Easily.

With everybody getting at least one hit, and with at least one run being scored in every inning except the second, the Anacostia Eagles had little trouble in swamping the Woodmen, 18 to 5. Altogether, the winners collected 27 hits, Gilbert leading with five bingles and Brown coming through with a single, triple and home run. Outside of the second, when the Woodmen scored four times, Goodwin was invincible on the mound for the Eagles.

Three pitchers, Scagnelli, Barruto, and Freschi were used by the Woodmen in a vain effort to stop the relentless attack.

Seabright Sets Records At Winchester Traps

Special to The Washington Post.

Winchester, Va., July 20.—Arthur Seabright continued to make new high records with a 16-gauge shotgun before traps at the Winchester Gun Club yesterday, bettering his record of the preceding week. He broke 25 straight at 16 yards and 23 out of 25 at 23 yards. He was the first member of the club to use a 16-gauge gun. Seabright was one of the leaders in the State shoot at Richmond recently. Claude B. Stickley, of the local club, who will shoot in the West Virginia State meet at Bluefield this week, will also be a Virginia representative at the national handicap in Ohio August 18.

Easton Boatmen Again Win Lipton Trophy

Special to The Washington Post.

Easton, Md., July 20.—The Sir Thomas Lipton trophy remains in Easton another year, as the Johnson Brothers, Klowndes and Graham, of the Chesapeake Bay Yacht Club, of Easton, this afternoon won the last and final race of the regatta of the Chesapeake Bay Yacht Club, which for the past two days has been being sailed by boats of the star boat class in Eastern Bay and Miles River off Clairborne.

The course over which the thirteen boats started this afternoon was shortened to 1½ miles, three times around, making 6½ miles, so as to give the vast crowd of spectators that lined the shore a better opportunity to see the racing boats.

The wind was light from the west and the race virtually ended in a drifting race. The three winners were the Johnson Brothers, in the Ripple, first; J. Rulind Miller, of the Gibson Island Yacht Club, who sailed the Sole, second, and F. W. Robertson, of the Delaware River Yacht Club, who sailed the Juno, third.

The Johnson Brothers have won the trophy three years, as follows: 1927, 1929 and 1930.

During the race a number of the boats dropped out, failing to finish, owing to the light wind. Time, 2 hours 15 minutes.

Easton Wins, 11 to 10, From St. Michaels

Easton, Md., July 20.—Easton and St. Michaels played a close game today. Easton won, 11 to 10. Sullivan weakened in the seventh when he forced in a run on a base on balls. Hummer went to the mound in the eighth and saved the game with a timely single. Wood was overcome by the heat and had to retire after making three hits. A large crowd attended.

Bausermans Clinch Title In Virginia League Race

McCarthy's Pitching and Hitting Feature as Jefferson Bows, 5-4; Fans Side With Bases Full in Ninth.

All doubt as to the ultimate outcome of the Virginia section of the Capita lCity League was dispelled yesterday when the Bauserman Motor Co., leaders, repulsed a determined attack of their most formidable foes, the Jefferson Fire Department Team, by a 5-to-4 victory, automatically clinching the title for the victorious nine. It was the only game played in that section, Cherrydale having forfeited to the Woodlawn Nine, and the Ballston Nine having drawn a bye.

It was managerial strategy plus the presence of one of those famous "pebbles" that materially aided the Motor Nine to win, the latter break allowing three of their players to cross the plate after having arrived at their bases on a carefully planned system.

Two runs behind, the first three of the Bauserman Nine to come to bat in the sixth inning all laid down perfect bunts, each of the trio reaching first safely to crowd the bases. At this point, Bernie McCarthy, who incidentally pitched a nice game, socked a clean single to right field. The ball, however, struck a pebble, just as the Firemen's right fielder was ready to grab it, and before it could be retrieved all of the runners had crossed the plate, although McCarthy failed to advance past first.

Showing that he was not to be denied his victory, McCarthy staved off a determined rally of the Firemen in the ninth, when, with the bases filled, none out and a run across the plate, he struck out three successive batters to end the game. An inning before the Bauserman team had added another run to its total, to be unaffected by the Firemen's last tally in the final frame.

KNOCKING "Babe" Clapper, ace of the Dixie Pigs, out of the box before he could retire a man in the first inning, the Mount Ranier Nine started in impression fashion to strengthen its lead in the Prince George's section of the Capital City League yesterday, going to an ultimate 10-5 victory over the Pigs.

But half a game behind when the battle started, the Pigs were shoved back into a tie for second place with Hyattsville and a game and a half behind the league-leading Mount Raniers. The Hyattsville Nine kept pace with the losers by doubling the score on Bowie, 14 to 7, while Bowie received a victory through a forfeit of the last-place Berwyn Nine.

The Mount Rainier players hopped on Clapper for three hits before the game had hardly started, Smith, Quigley and Hook all doubling in their initial time at bat. With four runs across, Clapper was removed and Lefty Stevens assumed the burden, but he was unable to stop the rally. Adair, the third pitcher of the Pigs, entered the game at a later stage and hurled nice ball, but the damage had been done.

Grant Smith, with two doubles and a single, led the attack, while Quigley, the Mount Rainier pitcher, permitted only three hits and struck out the side in one inning.

Clever pitching on the part of Tom Mudd enabled the Hyattsville nine to score ta 14-to-7 verdict over Bowie, the winning hurler always apparently having something in reserve whenever the enemy became dangerous. Hiser smacked two doubles and a single, Hargett socked a home run and a single, while Harding got two one-basers.

TAKOMA 8-6 VICTOR OVER ROCKVILLE

Chevy Chase Wins to Keep Pace in County Race.

SPLENDID relief pitching on the part of Horace Duffy enabled the Takoma Tigers to maintain in their two-game lead over the Chevy Chane Nine yesterday in the Montgomery League, the stellar southpaw being largely instrumental in his team's 8-to-6 victory over the third-place Rockville Team. Chevy Chase stuck to the heels of the leaders, however, by burying the last-place Colonials under a 17-to-5 score, while the Bethesda Nine pasted another licking on the Kensington Team, which has won only one game in ten starts.

Taking the mound in the fourth inning with two enemy runners on the base and none out, Duffy not only retired the side without a run, but pitched masterful ball for the rest of the game, allowing but two hits and fanning four in the next five innings.

However, he was forced to share honors with his teammate, Doc Hessler, who turned in a high class game in every department. Not only did he collect a double and home-run, the latter coming with two men on base, but he robbed Keyes of a sure rundtripper when he leaned over the left-field fence to spearce his driv with one hand.

Led by Ferrari who had a hot hand at the bat with two home-runs, a double, and a single, the Chevy Chase nine started in at the outset to submerge the Colonials, counting four runs in the very first inning. Although the Colonials countered with five tallies in the third, the Grays came right back with four more and from then on, were never halted.

As fourteen hits rained off of the bats of Bethesda, the Kensington nine was forced to take a 13-9 lacing, Best and Heggens leading the assault with three hits apiece. Both pitchers, however, went the route. Kensington tied the score in the seventh but was unable to maintain the pace and allowed Bethesda to push over the winning tallies.

SERGEANT JASPER and Spengler Posts find themselves deadlocked for the leadership of the American Legion this morning as the result of victories which kept their slates clean yesterday in that series. The only other undefeated team of yesterday was beaten for the first time by the Spengler Post in a thrilling 3 to 2 game, allowing that team to tie Sergeant Jasper, which continued in the winning way with a 10 to 4 victory over Lincoln.

Tied in league standings and the game which was being played, Hawkins gave the Spengler Team its advantage by doubling in the seventh inning, scoring Luebkert, who had singled with the winning run. Pitcher Allison Mickeljohn then continued to pitch his brilliant brand of ball, keeping Victory scoreless for the rest of the game. In all, he allowed but four hits off of his slants, while contributing a single and double to the winning cause.

Triple Play in Game.

Sergeant Jasper had not such a tough afternoon as their closest foes. A triple play was made by the Lincoln team. Four players, Kekenas Bradford, Buzzanca, and Raub had a partin the unsual play. Accumulating seven runs in the first three innings, the Sergeant Jaspers were neyer threatened. A homer by Palsgrove of the losers, in the first, attempted a start which was never completed.

In the other game, the George Washington Post handed the Nashes their third straight setback by applying a coat of whitewash, 7 to 0. Pearce, pitching the scoreless game, allowed but five hits, Waters getting two of them. The victory gave the winners their first triumph in the series, two defeats marking their previous attempts.

Bob Bateman featured the winner's attack with a triple and a homer. The Shady Oak Nine will play Capitol Heights A. C. on the Maryland Park diamond next Sunday.

THE Olmsted Grill and O'Brien Nines earned the right to meet for the senior class championship of the Capital City League yesterday when they turned in victories over their closest rivals in their respective sections. The wins assured both teams of the titles of their sections.

The Olmsted Grill has Drissel to thank for its second victory over the Curtins yesterday. With the score tied in the eighth, this lad smacked a home run with Dick Nelson on base, giving his team a 3-1 lead which it never relinquished.

The game was a pitchers' duel until the fifth inning, neither team being able to score until that frame. The Curtins then took a one-run lead only to be tied by the Grillmen in their next turn at bat. Dick Lanahan, all-high Eastern ace, and Everett Russell, scintillating Tech performer, hooked up in as pretty a duel as has been seen this year in senior ranks.

To clinch its title, the O'Briens spotted the Senators three runs in the first and then blanked their foes for the rest of the game, while they were accumulating seven. Carter pitched nice ball after a poor start and benefitted from the stickwork of Gubisch, who collected three hits, including a double. Two-run rallies in the sixth and seventh sewed up the game for the O'Briens.

In other games of division A the Holy Comforters downed the Anacostia Nine, 8 to 3, Turner scattering the losers' ten hits and getting three himself, and the Nolans defeated the Metropolitans, 9 to 5. The winners overcame a 2-1 lead in the third with a three-run rally.

In division B the Majestics rose above the .500 mark by trimming the Millers, 8 to 2, collecting fourteen hits. The win was the third in the last four starts for the Majestics, who have been playing some of the best ball in the league during the past month. Pitcher Bean, besides hurling nice ball, aided the cause with a home run.

ALEXANDRIA SPORTS

ALEXANDRIA, VA., July 20.—St. Mary's Celtics experienced little difficulty with the Hose Co. No. 5 tossers, of Martinsburg, W. Va., this afternoon in their game at Baggett's Park and captured a 7 to 2 verdict.

"Lefty" McIntyre, pitching for the Celtics, held the West Virginia semi-pro champions to four hits, two of which were injected into a fifth-inning rally, which gave the Firemen their two runs.

Ludlow led the Celtics at bat with a home run and double in four times at the rubber, while Goodwin, Ball and McIntyre came through with a pair of lesser blows apiece. Stephens was the outstanding star for the losers, collecting a pair of hits and robbing "Doc" Dreifus of a pair of safeties by sensational catches.

Cardinal Athletic Club shut out the Virginia White Sox, 12 to 0, on the losers' diamond at Baileys Crossroads this afternoon, with the veteran, Jimmy Quayle and Judd pitching one-hit ball.

Quayle granted one single during his six-inning stay on the hill and fanned eight batters. He retired after the sixth because of the intense heat and Judd held the Sox without a hit from that point on. Judd struck out three.

Buddy Zimmerman copped the day's batting honors with three singles in four times at bat, while his teammate, Teddy Sutherland, produced a single and triple in four chances.

Columbia Engine Company won by 10 to 9 in its invasion of Fort Washington, Md., where it encountered the Fort Washington Post Team, this afternoon. A three-run rally staged by the losers in the ninth inning just fell short of its purpose.

Gilly Lee, former Dreadnaught A. A. flash, showed his old-time form for the Columbias in clouting the pellet for three hits in four times at bat, including one four-base blow. Louis Latham was runnerup with two singles.

Boyd, of the losers, grabbed off two singles and a home run in four times at bat, while Gavahan and Slattery, his teammates, hit safely twice. One of Slattery's socks went for a triple.

California Pair Stars In U. S. Polo Trials

Port Washington, N. Y., July 20 (A.P.).—The first official test match for the American international polo squad, drilling for the series with Great Britain this September, was featured today by the play of the two Californians, Elmer Boeseke, jr., and Eric Pedley, playing together in the East for the first time.

Boeseke at No. 2 and Pedley riding at No. 3 combined to put on a rally that gave the "Whites" a 13-to-9 victory over the "Reds." Boeseke scored four goals and Pedley five for the winning side, which had as its other members Stephen ("Laddie") Sanford and young Earl Hopping, at back.

Tommy Hitchcock, captain of the American team, still bothered by a strained muscle in his right side, stayed out of the game unexpectedly.

BY turning back the Y Flashes, 10 to 2, the Acme Juniors gained the first-half championship of their section of the Capital City League yesterday, notwithsanding the victories of their close rivals, the Arlingtons and Lionels.

Behind the fine pitching of Wallach, the Acme batters contributed a fine attack, seven runs in the sixth inning featuring their victory. Kichner, Del Vicchio and Fitzpatrick all came through with timely blows, while the Flashes were unable to solve Wallach's deliveries.

Arlington and Lionels remained in a tie for second place, the former turning in a 10-to-3 win over the Meridians and the latter by a 10-to-1 triumph over Takoma. Until the ninth inning the Arlington Nine was winning a shut-out victory, but in the last frame the Meridians came to life with three runs, Earl McPherson easing up a bit in the box. Altogether, he granted but five hits, the enemy's three runs coming as the result of Ross' homer.

Lionels Score Nine In Second Frame.

Scoring nine runs in the second inning, the Lionels faced a comparatively easy afternoon with Takomas, only two hits being made by the latter off of Raiford, the Lionel pitcher. The final score was 10 to 1, Lionel batters taking a holiday after their second-inning splurge.

Led by H. Best, who had a perfect day at bat, with three hits out of three tries, the Bethesda Juniors smacked out twelve hits in their 14-to-5 rout of St. Stephens. Best also shared the pitching burden of the winners with Henly. Although hitting freely, St. Stephens was unable to push ttheir men around to the plate, ten being left on the bases.

Galena Is Easy Victim Of St. Georges Tossers

St. Georges, Del., July 20.—A flock of errors chalked up against the visiting Galena Club of the Chesapeake Bay League and splendid support behind the pitching of J. McCarthy, of the local team, accounted for an 11-to-2 defeat handed the Marylanders by the hard-hitting Blue Hen State outfit in spite of the sterling mound work of E. Coleman, flinging for Galena.

Kennedyville, Md., July 20.—Kennedyville administered an 11-to-3 defeat to Cecilton with the Cecil County Diamond outfit unable to stave off a savage hitting attack by their old rivals while Archibald, Hurlock, Williams, Tobin and Loller featured at bat for the victors. Frank Bristow did yeoman service for Cecilton both at bat and in the pitchers' box, but lacked support in the field.

DIAL FLASHES

By ROBERT D. HEINL

THE number of sets one may hear, even on the hottest nights, furnish audible proof that radio is no longer seasonal.

Instead of taking off attractions this summer, they seem to be putting them on. A new comedy serial, "Cuddles and Monty," will begin tomorrow night (WRC 9:15 p. m.)

Men will welcome watches which can be corrected by radio, as they walk along the streets, but will this assurance of accuracy offer any extra inducement to women?

There ought to be a breath of the real Scotland if tomorrow we hear the Inverness Gaelic Choir direct from Aberdeen. (WRC—2:15 p. m.)

WRITTEN recently by Thalia Shanner Woods, of Takoma Park, "May I Have the Rain" has been taken up by Will Osborne and shows promise of becoming a radio favorite.

The music was composed by Daniel Breeskin, orchestra conductor at the Earle, who first broadcast the song over WRC, having it sung by Harlan Randall. Will Osborne had his orchestra play it last Monday evening over WMAL. The orchestra repeated it Friday evening, this time over a Columbia hookup, and Osborne himself sang the selection.

Elizabeth Wragge, 12-year-old actress heard in "The Lady Next Door," was awarded the scholarship for the best all-around scholar at the New York Professional Children's School.

Through the Metropolitan police bulletin from Station WJSV each night at 7 o'clock, William D. Haislip reports having broadcast a total, to date, of 716 missing persons, two-thirds of whom have been returned home.

An instance of the quick results the radio sometimes brings in police work was when two girls from Clarksburg, W. Va., were reported to be in Washington. Twenty minutes after a broadcast had been made the girls were found.

HAVING received 5,000 letters of approval for restoring Ludwig Laurier and his Slumber Hour, we suggest the NBC program disturbers let him alone for a while.

A sample of the television receivers, 1,000 of which are now regularly being used, in and around London, has just been received in New York. It looks like an ordinary radio receiver with a peephole in front and a large pie-pan on the back.

Baird, its inventor, is building a television station on the English coast with which he expects to "look" at us across the Atlantic.

A continuity writer was called upon to write a stirring bit of poetry dealing with war. Through a typographical error a line that should have read "Hark, to the sound of the guns," really appeared "Hark, to the sound of the gums."

IF what appears to be summer static is heard over WRC, it may be the first offering of Daniel John Callahan, son of Vincent Callahan, assistant to Vice President F. M. Russell. Young Callahan was born at Georgetown Hospital Saturday morning.

Uncle Sam's Home Hints

LIGHTING OF A GAS OVEN.

(Bureau of Standards, Department of Commerce.)

In lighting a gas oven a few simple precautions should be taken to assure safety. The oven door should first be opened and then a match lighted before turning on the pilot. After the pilot is lighted the gas at the main burners should be turned on quickly. It should then be ascertained that the oven burners are actually lighted before turning off the pilot. In case the oven burners light back of the air mixer when turned on again gas should be shut off at once and then turned on again before the pilot is extinguished. If lighting back occurs frequently, it is an indication that the air shutter is wide open, and the trouble may be remedied by closing it slightly. However, it should not be closed enough to produce a yellow flame. In case the match goes out before the pilot is lighted, the gas should be immediately turned off and another match procured and lighted before the gas is turned on again. In case no pilot is provided, the same precautions should be observed with even greater care. One burner at a time should be turned on and lighted. There should be no hesitation about turning the burners on full and applying the match immediately.

Jane Interprets the MODE

For fall two weights of wool, as in this ensemble, of dark red, the dress a lighter weight wool than the coat. (Courtesy of Bernard et Cie, Paris.)

Paris, July 20.

'N'WHEN she got all fed up with the studio that faces the cemetery and "has a fine north light," meaning never any sun, albeit a certain nocturnal charm, and then she had a temperamental fit and slept for three whole days and nights and the Dah-ray copy didn't get written or mailed or anything, and then she woke up in Alana's nice sunshiny apartment in Montmartre and—no, she didn't yell for a beefsteak, but she did yell for a typewriter.

Ol' leaping bronco to the fore! Ye gods, it's been months now since I had to struggle with this portable—oh-yes—it's a typewriter all right, when it goes. I only wish our wild Irish printer would just print this once the way it's written, but he wouldn't insult his typebox or whatever it is he prints with.

(And I'd better get down to my fashions, ol' lady moon—so au revoir for awhile——.)

• • • •

And first of all, let me ask you if you wanna send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post, for the leaflet telling you how to make those cunning three-piece Chinese lounging pajama suits—like the one Alana brought from Hollywood—and someone brought her from China. I'm lolling around in it right now, and you have no idea what a salubrious effect it has on my weakened condition—why, I can even finish this day's collum, just thinking how I must look—to the moon.

• • • •

The woman who is weary of browns and beige can be assured that dark reds are smart for the coming season—and I think, a bit more becoming. Speaking about dyes, (who did?) you can have those beige things dipped a lively dark red—and say they are new.

• • • •

'Member I told you that ensembles made of two weights of wool, the dress a lighter weight than the coat and dress perfectly matching in color, would be worn this fall and winter? Well, Bernard et Cie says so, too, in the ensemble of dark red which I have sketched for you today. Don't we just thank the cloth manufacturers though!

• • • •

'N I paid three hundred dollars for the dress! She wails, seeing it hopelessly out of style. Sh—h-h-h-h, we are working on a leaflet right this minnit, to tell you what to do about some of these! Watch Saturday for the announcement—maybe nex' Saturday.

• • • •

And watch Sunday for the Dare weekly fashion letter. It's always in the the Sunday Washington Post.

Au Revoir!

Spanish in One Goofus Lesson

A Goofus Mosquito once bit un chiquito,
Get it straight—un chiquito 's a lad,
Upon the pierna—
Pronounced thus: Pee-air-nah
Meaning leg—and he bit him real bad.
Said the Chiquito—"Maldito mosquito!"
(Maldito, I regret is a curse)
"If once more you bite me
Prepare then to fight me;—
Caramba!"—meaning darn it, no worse!

What Today Means to You

By MARY BLAKE

"CANCER."

IF JULY 21 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 9 a. m. to 10:15 a. m., 2 p. m. to 3:30 p. m., and 8:30 p. m. to 10:10 p. m. The danger periods are from 6 a. m. to 7:30 a. m., and 5 p. m. to 6 p. m.

Astrological influences on this date will bring mental and spiritual discontent, which, in turn, may cause a much needed "kicking over the traces" and the desired freedom from restraining shackles. A good time for philosophical and scientific studies.

The child born this July 21 will have the much desired emotional and mental balance. Its eyes will image the world as a camera does, so keen will its powers of observation be. It will be born with a good business sense, and will have a streak of economy in its nature.

It can not be said that you do not have an active mind; it is full of thoughts and ideas, but you are afraid to express them. A lack of self-confidence prevents you from doing many things which you long to do, and of which you are capable. You do yourself injury to suppress your thoughts so much; to permit poisonous thoughts to enter the subconscious mind, and then to suppress by force of will the natural action resulting therefrom, is the quickest road to nervous disease and unhappiness. You permit envy, jealousy and hatred to smoulder within you, until a time of spontaneous combustion arises which does much more harm to you and others than you realize.

You are very restless, and you must be moving from place to place, or from thought to thought—you never stay put. You must have diversity, outlets for your nervous energies, and you will succeed only in a life of change. Being very sensitive, nervous and highly strung, you are too much swayed by the thought sphere of others.

You are ambitious, but it is chiefly a mental ambition for refinement and better conditions. You are not a genius for making or spending money, and no matter how large your income, you would always be "broke."

You are a poor buyer, and are many times "done" by ruthless salesmen. You are truly generous and kind to those who ask your sympathy or aid, and on the impulse of the moment you give in excess of your means or strength.

WORK ON BRIDGE

The bidding of the above would be quite simple at either Auction or Contract. At Auction South would bid and obtain the contract at one No Trump; at Contract he would bid two No Trumps on his count of 18 and four stopped suits, and North would jump to three No Trumps on his count of 6.

The hand was played at Auction: West led a small Diamond. South took the trick and led a King of Spades which East won and returned his partner's lead. The Diamonds were established for East and West when North's King won, and Declarer then established his Spades. East, when he won the third Spade, shifted to Clubs as he did not have another Diamond. South won, cashed his good Spade, put dummy in with the King of Hearts and led a second Heart from that hand.

Up to this point in the play Declarer had taken two Spades, two Diamonds, one Club and one Heart. As he needed but one more trick to make his Auction bid of one and might be set if he tried the Heart finesse, he played his Ace and ended with seven tricks. Had he taken the 50-50 chance of the finesse, he would have corralled eight tricks—one less than game. As the trick which might be won was worth ten points and the trick that might be lost would have cost him sixty points, he was wise to refuse so one-sided a risk.

THE CORRECT PLAY.

The Declarer erred seriously in not using dummy's two Kings to secure two leads toward South's King-Queen of Spades. Dummy should have won the first trick and then led a Spade, if South won dummy should have been put in again with the King of Hearts for a second Spade lead. Handling the Spades that way would limit East to one trick in the suit, and the only precaution Declarer would have to take would be to play North's Six and South's Five on the fourth Spade trick so that North could lead a Heart for the finesse. Declarer would go game by taking three Spades, three Hearts, two Diamonds and one Club.

Kingsford-Smith Back in New York

Completes Plane Journey Across Continent and Back.

Roosevelt Field, N. Y., July 20 (A.P.).—Wing Commander Charles Kingsford-Smith arrived here today by plane from Akron, Ohio, completing a journey across the continent and back. With him were John W. Stannage and J. Patrick Saul, two of his companions on the recent transatlantic flight of the Southern Cross.

Kingsford-Smith said he would sail for England in a week or so. Saul and Stannage said they knew nothing of reports that they planned to fly from the United States to Amsterdam, although they said they would be "interested" in such a project if a plane were made available.

The three left for New York to wind up their American business affairs before leaving for Europe. Evert van Dyk, the fourth member of the Southern Cross crew, sailed for Holland, Friday.

SURVEY POINTS OUT MILL WORKERS' AIDS

Low Rents and Cheap Fuel Are Called Service to Be Included in Wage.

HEALTH CARE IS GIVEN

Charlottesville, Va., July 20 (A.P.). The Southern textile worker's wages are lower than in the mills of New England, but he is receiving an additional service not to be overlooked in computing his compensation, the Institute for Research in the Social Sciences of the University of Virginia has found in a survey of labor in the South.

That service, said Institute investigators, is principally to be found in cheap rentals of houses and cheap fuel provided by the employer—an aid to living not available in New England. By it the company has materially decreased the cost of living among its employes.

There were other aids provided the Southern worker, including education and welfare work, and the same were found in New England. The difference between the two sections was that the Northern mill worker received these services as a citizen of his respective community, rather than as a worker in his respective factory. But in every case, either through city taxation or voluntary contributions, the Northern mill paid for what its workers received.

First Sectional Study.

The institute's survey was its first sectional study since being established at the University of Virginia in 1928 by the Rockefeller Foundation. Its entire scope on all phases of the South's new industrial development extended into Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana, Texas, Arkansas and Tennessee—the eleven original "slave States," and into Kentucky and West Virginia in a study of the lumber industry.

One of the most tangible evidences of the mills' direct interest in the community life was the "community house," which might be a cottage or an elaborate establishment with swimming pools, gymnasiums and all the other activities which make up the program for a modern Y. M. C. A.

In the mills located at the edge of towns and cities, the investigators found 14 community houses in 31 mills. In the country mills, community houses were maintained in eight out of eleven studied. Most of these eight had excellently planned programs of welfare work.

Health Closely Watched.

The health of the workers was found to be closely watched by the employers, some maintaining a mill nurse, who cared for accidents and also looked after the health of the entire village. Often she was the only community worker and, as such was expected to lead in village club work, especially among younger children. In some organizations were found health programs "far more ambitious than those found in the ordinary community of the mill village size."

Welfare work was apparently a serious effort in most villages.

"It should be clear," said the survey report, "that the Southern mill hand rarely finds himself destitute because of some ill fortune which may have temporarily befallen him. He may live in a city or in an isolated community, but there is some agency through which he may obtain aid."

A man who saw the accident and helped remove the injured persons to the hospital, Charles M. Robinson, of 217 Eleventh street southeast, said that the car driven by Bennet attempted to pass another machine on the curve, and that it failed to pass in time, crashing headon into the bus.

Passengers on the bus were Navy students from the U. S. S. Nitro, on a sight-seeing trip under the direction of Lieut. J. P. Bolling.

Injured when the car in which she was riding was in a collision on the Baltimore pike near Laurel, Md., yesterday, Mrs. William Stein, of 708 H street northeast, is in a serious condition at Casualty hospital from loss of blood. ROAD DEVELOPMENT PARLEY SCHEDULED

Maryland and Virginia Men Will Gather With City Officials Tomorrow.

ALL INVITED BY GRANT

Nearby Maryland and Virginia representatives tomorrow will gather with District of Columbia and park and planning officials to work out an orderly development of the environs of the Nation's Capital, with particular emphasis on the planning of highways.

Acting upon the invitation of Col. U. S. Grant 3d, executive officer of the National Capital Park and Planning Commission, the nearby counties have designated representatives to the conference, which will be held in the office of Col. Grant at the Navy Building.

In his letter, Col. Grant pointed out that the National Capital Park and Planning Commission is charged by Congress "with the duty of preparing, developing and maintaining a comprehensive, consistent and coordinated plan for the National Capital and its environs, which plans shall include recommendations to the proper executive authorities as to traffic and transportation, plans, highways and parks."

To Study Locations.

The committee will study the location of future highways, park development and policies as to rights of way, parallel roads and entrances and matters of such activities. The meeting tomorrow will be a preliminary meeting to permit organization and adoption of plans of procedure.

The Maryland and Virginia counties showed their deep interest in the movement by their prompt acceptance of places for their representatives on the committee and by the caliber of the men appointed to represent the counties. In every instance they are men who are vitally interested in the orderly development of the Capital's environs.

In Montgomery County, Lacy Shaw, vice president of the board of county commissioners, is in charge of the section of Montgomery County contiguous to the District. Mr. Shaw has been known for some time as an ardent devotee of the doctrine of orderly development. J. Enos Ray, the Prince Georges County representative, also has been a student of such growth, and his appointment by the Prince Georges County commissioners indicates their belief in the movement. In both of these counties there has been a well-defined sentiment in favor of such organization.

Virginians Praised Also.

In Virginia the response to the call for the meeting has brought forth men of no less ability.

Former Representative P. P. Campbell, who was a member of Congress from Kansas and deeply interested in the growth of the Nation's Capital, and County Engineer C. L. Kennier have been named. Alexandria has named City Manager Wallace Lawrence as its representative and Fairfax County has named County Supervisor Mark Turner and County Engineer F. Novell Larkin.

Representatives of the Maryland National Capital Park and Planning Commission and the Virginia Park and Planning Commission and the District Commissioners will be present at the conference as well as of the National Capital Park and Planning Commission. The Maryland State Roads Commission and the Virginia State Highway Commission as well as the Bureau of Public Roads will be represented on the committee which will be named the Washington regional highway committee.

Veteran of Civil, Spanish Wars Dies

Richard P. Thrall Buried by Legion in Culpeper With Military Honors.

Special to The Washington Post.

Culpeper, Va., July 20.—Richard P. Thrall, veteran of two wars and for many years an outstanding figure at Confederate reunions, was buried here today by the American Legion with full military honors. Members of the family say that Capt. Thrall, as he was generally known, served under the famous guerilla leader, Quantrill, in the War Between the States and was closely associated with Jesse James and his brothers before they were outlawed.

At the time of the Spanish-American War he was well up in years, but he shaved off his flowing beard so as lessen the appearance of age and he and one of his sons volunteered for the campaign. When the Unknown Soldier was buried, Capt. Thrall, as a Spanish-American veteran, was asked by the Secretary of War to officiate as one of the honorary pall bearers.

He had lived for nearly 50 years in and near Culpeper, where he painted many wartime pictures, one of which is a stirring view of the battle of Cedar Mountain. It hangs in the American Legion quarter at Culpeper.

BATTLE ON HEDRICK REOPENS TOMORROW

Arlington Women Voters to Offer Amended Petition in Ouster Fight.

ATTORNEY TO BE CITED

ARLINGTON COUNTY,
BUREAU OF THE POST,
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

The battle of the Organized Women Voters of Arlington County to oust Supervisor B. M. Hedrick for his alleged activities in connection with the installation of water and sewers in the Waycroft subdivision owned and developed by the Arlington Investment Corporation of which he is a stockholder and a director will be resumed in the Arlington County Circuit Court tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock before Circuit Judge Alexander Browning, of Orange.

The amended petition to the original filed with the judge of the circuit court of Arlington County June 19, asking judicial investigation into the activities of Supervisor Hedrick will be presented to the court.

The petition is signed by Ruby G. Simpson, president of the Organized Women Voters of Arlington County; Mary G. Williams, corresponding secretary; Bertha S. Kelley, chairman of the executive committee; Alice W. Semones, member of the executive committee; Ada H. Davidson, of the executive committee; Jessie W. Hunt, of the civic committee, and Florence E. Cannon, parliamentarian.

A phase of the case which has created much interest will be the hearing before Judge Browning of Carl Marshall, an attorney, who is cited to appear and show cause why he should not be held in contempt of court.

The case resulted from the reading of two letters, written by Mr. Marshall, by Attorney Burnett Miller for the women voters in the case against Supervisor Hedrick addressed to Government departments:

The letters, dated July 5, 1930, read in part:

"I have been directed to advise you that Mr. Julian Simpson, who is employed in the Prohibition Department, is unusually and unnecessarily active in political matters in Arlington County.

"On account of the activities referred to above he has been subpenaed to appear before the Circuit Court of Arlington County in an impeachment hearing which has politics at its root.

"I have hesitated to take this matter up with the Civil Service Commission, believing that Mr. Simpson should, as soon as his attention is called to the matter, refrain from taking further part in Arlington County political controversies if, in fact, he has done so."

The second letter of like nature referred to Mr. N. Rex Hunt. The third letter was read by the judge himself and had reference to Frank J. Kelley. The letter about Hunt went to the Agriculture Department, while the third went to the Bureau of Engraving and Printing.

Supervisor Hedrick has employed Wilson Farr, Commonwealth's attorney of Fairfax County; Capt. Crandal Mackey, and Edgar W. Pu phrey.

A meeting of the women's division of the "Ball for Congress Club," recently organized in the Lyon Park Precinct, will be held with Virginia Gary, Ingram and Latterner avenues, tomorrow night at 8 o'clock. Mrs. A. M. Hurley, William L. Bragg and E. Wade Ball will be among the speakers.

Mossburg. Chairman Mossburg asks that all members of subcommittees attend this meeting.

The Arlington County Social Club opens its annual carnival tonight on the field fronting Wilson boulevard at the intersection of Clements avenue at Ballston. The carnival will continue for two weeks. The proceeds will go to the building fund.

A card party will be given Wednesday night under the auspices of the Ashton Heights Woman's Club at the clubhouse.

PARENTS WILL VISIT YOUTHS IN TRAINING

Track Meet and Exhibition Drill on Program at Fort Myer.

RIFLE PRACTICE IS NEXT

Hundreds of parents of the boys in the C. M. T. C. Cavalry camp at Fort Myer are expected to attend the celebration of parents' day today at the camp. They will be amused by a track and field meet and an exhibition drill.

The athletic events will take place in the morning, with an exhibition of trick riding in the afternoon. There will be medals for those taking the first three places in the meets.

Wednesday, the three troops of training soldiers will march to Camp Sims for three days of target practice. They will live in pup tents and generally behave as though they were in the field. Rifle, pistol and machine gun practice will be on the program during their stay there. The course of the march will be through the city, so that local people will have a chance to view the future soldiers training just outside the city.

On their return from the target ranges they will probably be reviewed by the President, July 28, and after that will be the guests of the Fox Theater, all 287 of them. Still further in the future a swimming meet will occupy them on the 29th, two days before the disband.

Parents' day at Fort Washington will be held next Wednesday, when fond mothers and fathers will have a chance to see how their training sons eat, live and work. Scores of persons from western Pennsylvania are expected to attend. Last year the camp was crowded with interested visitors.

On the program are the usual athletic meets and the finals in the tennis tournaments. There will probably be a review of the battalion, also, it is said.

At Fort Eustic it is reported that the light showers which fell the latter part of last week did not prevent target practice. Nineteen hundred men, divided into two battalions, engaged in a marksmanship competition which is still raging, with the issue in doubt.

Mrs. Margaret E. Crabbs, 33 years old, of 1929 First street northwest, received a broken collarbone yesterday when the auto in which she was riding, was struck by a Washington Railway Electric Co. street car at Fourth street and Machusetts avenue northwest.

Mrs. Crabbs was in a car driven by George R. James of 1238 D street northeast, when it swerved in front of the street car to avoid striking a truck which was pulling out from the curb. She was taken to No. 8 Truck Company house nearby, where firemen called Emergency hospital.

The street car, which was bound for Kenilworth, was operated by H. A. Scoggins, of 1803 Kenilworth avenue northeast. It was said that Mrs. Crabb's young son, who was also a passenger in the car, was unhurt and was taken to his home.
